CATILINE his CONSPIRACY

VVritten
by
Ben: Ionson.

——His non Plebecula gaudet.

Verum Equitis quog, iam migravit ab aure voluptas,

Omnis, ad incertos oculos, & gaudia vana.

LONDON,
Printed for Waker Burre.
1611.

TOTHE GREAT EXAMPLE OF HONOR, AND VER-

THE MOST MOBLE

VVILLIAM

EARLE OF PENBROOKE, &c.

My Lord.

IN so thicke, and darke an ignorance, as now almost couers the Age, I craue leave to stand neare your light: and, by that, to be read. Posterity may pay your benefit the honor, and thanks; when it shall know, that you dare, in these lig-given times, to A2.

THE HOLD WAS A STATE OF THE SECOND THE countenance a legitimate Poême. must call it so, against all noise of opinion: from whose crude, and ayry reports, I appeale, to that great and singular faculty of Judgment in your Lordship, able to vindicate truth from error. It is the first (of this race) that euer I dedicated to any Person, and had I not thought it the best, it should have beene taught a lesse ambition. Now, it approcheth your censure chearefully, and with the same assurance, that Innocency would appeare before a Magistrate.

> Your Lo. most faithfull Honorer.

> > Ben. Ionfon.

TO THE READER IN ORDINARIE

HE Muses forbid, that I should restrayne your medline, whom I fee alreadie busie with the Title, and tricking o. uer the leaves: It is your owne. I departed with my right, when Het it first abroad. And, now, fo secure an Interpreter I am of my chance, that neither praise, nor dispraise from you can affeet mee. Though you commend the two first Actes, with the people, because they are the worst; and deslike the Oration of Cicero, in regard you read some pieces of it, at Schoole, and under fland them not yet; I shall finde the way to forgive you. Be any thing you will be, at your owne charge. Would I had deserved but halfe sowell of it in translation, as that ought to deserve of you in indement, if you have any. I know you will pretend (who soener you are) to have that, and more. But all pretences are not inst claymes. The commendation of good things may fall within a many, their approbation but in a few: for the most commend out of affection, selfe tickling, an easinesse, or imitation: but men judge only out of knowledge. That is the trying faculty. And, to those workes that will beare a Judge, nothing is more dangerous then a foolish prayse. You will say I shall not have yours, therfore; but rather the contrary, all vexation of Censure. If I were not about such molestations now I had great cause to thinke unworthily of my studies, or they had so of mee. But I leave you to your exercise. Beginne.

To the Reader extraordinary.

You I would vnderstand to be the Detter Man, though Places in Court go otherwise: to you I submit my selfe, and worke. Farewell.

BEN: IONSON.

To my friend Mr. Ben: Fonson,

Tre thou had it itch'd after the wild applause
Of common people, and had it made thy Lawes.
In writing, such, as catch'd at present voyce,
Is hould commend the thing, but not thy choyse.
But thou hast squar'd thy rules, by what is good;
And art, three Ages yet, from understood:
And (Idare say) init, there lies much With
Lost, till thy Readers can grow up to it,
Vhich they can nere outgrow, to find it ill,
But must fall backe againe, or like it still.

Franc: Beaumont.

Tohis worthy friend Mr. Ben. Ionson.

Dares etter more, then other men dare heare,

That have their wirs about 'hem: yet such men,
Deare friend, must see your Booke, and reade; and then,
Out of their learned ignorance, crie ill,
And lay you by, calling for mad Pasquill,
Or Greene's deare Greats worth, or Tom Coryate,
The new Lexicon, with the errant Pate;
And picke away, from all these sewise friends.
And durtie ones, to make their as-wise friends.
Beleeeue they are transslaters. Of this, pitty,
There is a great plague hanging o're the Citty:
Volesse she purge her judgement presently.
But, O thou happy man, that must not die.

As these things shall: leaving no more behind
But a thin memory (like a passing wind)
That blowes, and is forgotten, ere they are cold.
Thy labours shall out live thee; and, like gold
Stampt for continuance, shall be current, where
There is a Sunne, a People, or a Yeare.

John Fletcher.

To his worthy beloved friend M. BEN. IONSON.

His plots past into acts, (which would have turn'd His Infamy to Fame, though Rome had burn'd) Had not begot him equall grace with men,

As this, that he is writ by fuch a Pen:

VVhose inspirations, if great Rome had had,

Her good things had bene better'd, and her bad

Vndone; the first for joy, the last for feare,

That such a Muse should spread them, to our Yeare.

But woe to vs then: for thy laureat brow

If Rome enjoy'd had, we had wanted now.

But, in this Age, where Iigs and Dances moue,

How few there are, that this pure worke approue!

Yet, better then I rayle at, thou canst scorne

Censures, that die, ere they be throughly borne.

Each Subject thou, still thee each Subject rayles.

And who focuer thy Booke, himselfe disprayses:

Mat. Field.

The names of the Actors.

SYLLA'S GHOST.

CATILINE.

LENTVLVS.

CETHEGVS.

CVRIVS.

AVTRONIVS.

VARGUNTEIVS.

LONGINVS.

LECCA

FVLVIVS.

BESTIA.

GABINIVS.

STATILIVS.

CEPARIVS.

CORNELIVS.

VOLTVRTIVS.

AVRELIA

FULUIA.

SEMPRONIA:

GALLA.

CICERO.

ANTONIVS

CATO.

CATVLYS

CRASSVS.

CASSAR.

Qv. CICERO.

SYLLANVS.

FLACEVS.

POMTINIVS.

SANGA.

SENATORS.

ALLOBROGES

PETREIVS.

SOLDIERS.

PORTER

Lictors

SERVANTS.

PAGES.

CHORVS.

CATILINE. Act. j.

SYLLA'S Ghoft.

O'ft thou not feele me, Rome? Not yet? Is night So heavy on thee, and my weight to light? Can Sylla's Ghost arise within thy walles, (falles Leife threatning, then an earth-quake, the quicke Of thee, and thine? shake not the frighted heads Of thy steepe towers? or shrinke to their first beds? Or, as their ruine the large Tyber fils, Make that swell vp, and drowne thy feuen proud hils? What fler pe is this doth feize thee, to like death. And is not it? Wake, feele her, in my breath. Behold, I come, lent from the Stygian Sound, As a dire Vapor, that had cleft the ground, Tingender with the night, and blaff the day; Or like a Pestilence, that should display Infection through the world : which, thus, I doe. Pluto be at thy councels; and into Thy darker bosome enter Sylla's spirit: All, that was mine, and bad, thy breft inherit. Alas, how weake is that, for Catiline! Did I but fay (vaine voice) all that was mine? All, that the Gracchi, Cinna, Marins would; DOSENS THE WEST SHOWS What now, had I a body againe, I could, Comming from hell; what Flendes would wish should be; And Hannibal could not have wish'd to see: Thinke thou, and practife. Let the long-hid feedes Of treaton, in thee, now shoore forth in deedes, Ranker then horror; and thy former facts Not fall in mention, but to vige new acts:

В

Con-

Conscience of them pronoke thee on to more. Bestill thy Incests, Murders, Rapes before Thy sense; thy forcing first a Vestall Nunne; Thypatricide, late, on thine owne naturall Sonne, After his Mother, to make empty way For thy last wicked Nuptials; worse, then they, That fame that act of thy incestuous life, Which got thee, at once, a Daughter, and a Wife. I leave the flaughters, that thou didff for me, Of Senators; for which, I hid for thee Thy murder of thy Brother, (being so brib'd) And writ him in the lift of my profcrib'd After thy fact, to faue thy little shame: Thy incest, with thy Sifter, I not name. These are too light. Fate will have thee pursue Deedes, after which no Mischiefe can be new; The ruine of thy Countrey: Thou west built For fuch a worke, and borne for no leffe guilt: What though defeated once th'haftbeene, and knowne, Tempt it againe; That is thy act, or none. What all the feuerall Ills, that vifite earth, (Brought forth by night, with a finister birth) Plagues, Famine, Fire could not reach vnto, The Sword, nor Surfets, let thy fury doe: Make all past, present, future ill thine owne; And conquerall example, in thy one. Nor let thy thought finde any vacant time To hate an old, but fill a fresher crime Drowne the remembrance; Let not mischiese cease, But, while it is in punishing, encrease. Conscience, and care die in thee; And be free Not Heau'n it selfe from thy impiety: Let Night grow blacket with thy plots; and Day, At shewing but thy head forth, flart away From this halfe-Sphears: and leave Romes blinded walls Tembrace lufts, hatreds, flaughters, funerals,

CATFLINE.

And not recouer fight, till their owne flames
Doe light them to their ruines. All the names
Of thy Confederates, too, be no leffe great
In hell, then here; That, when we would repeate
Our strengths in Muster, we may name you all,
And Furies, vpon you, for Furies, call.
Whilst, what you doe, doth strike them into feares,
Or make them grieue, and wish your mischiese theirs.

CATILINE.

Day of the state of the T is decree'd. Nor shall thy Fate, ô Rome, Relist my vow. Though Hils were set on Hils, And Seas met Seas, to guarde thee; I would through: I, plough vp rockes, steepe as the Alpes, in dust; And laue the Tyrrhene waters, into cloudes; But I would reach thy head, thy head, proud Citty: The ills, that I have done, cannot be fafe But by attempting greater; and I feele A spirit, within me, chides my sluggish handes. And fayes, they have beene innocent too long. Was I a Man, bred great, as Rome her felfe? One, form'd for all her honors, all her glories? Equall to all her titles? That could fland Close vp, with Atlas; and sustaine her name As strong, as he doth Heav'n? And, was I, Of all her brood, mark'd out for the repulse By her no voice, when I flood Candidate, To be Commander in the Ponticke warre? I will, hereafter, call her Stepdame, euer. If shee can loose her nature, I can loose My piety; and in her stony entrailes Digge me a seate: where, I will live, againe, The labour of her wombe, and be a burden Weightier then all the Prodigies, and Monsters, That shee hath teem'd with, since shee first knew Mars. 181 17

CATILINE, AVRELIA.

TA7 Ho's there? Av R. Tis I. CAT. Aurelia? Av R. Yes. Av R. And breake, like day, my beauty, to this circle: (Appeare, Vpbraid by Phabus, that he is fo long In mounting to that point, which should give thee Thy proper splendour, Wherefore fromnes my sweet? Haue I too long bene absent from these lips, This cheeke, these eyes? what is my trepasse? speake. Av R. It seemes, you know, that can accuse your selfe. CAT. I will redeeme it. AVR. Still, you fay fo. When? CAT. When Orestilla by her bearing well These my retirements, and stolne times for thought Shall give their effects leave to call her Queene Of all the world, in place of humbled Rome. AVR. You court me, now. CAT. As I would alwaies, Loue. By this Ambrofiacke kifle, and this of Nettar, Wouldfi thou but heare as gladly, as I speake, Could my Aurelia thinke, I meant her leffe; When, wooing her, I first remon'd a Wife, And then a Sonne, to make my bed, and house Spatious, and fit t'embrace her? These were deeds Not t'haue begunne with, but to end with more, And greater: "He that, building, stayes at one "Floore, or the second, hath erected none. Twas how to raise thee, I was meditating; do both at a contract To make some act of mine answere thy loue: That love, that, when my flate was now quite funke, Came with thy wealth, and weighd it vp againe, And made my 'emergent Fortune once more looke About the maine; which, now, shall hit the flarres, of the main And flicke my Orestilla, there, amongs hem, If any tempest can but make the billow, and it is a man and And any billow can but lift her greatnesse. But, I must pray my loue, she will put on Like habites with my felfe. I haue to doe

With

CATFLINGE.

With many men, and many natures. Some, That must be blowne, and footh'd; as Lentulus, Whom I have heav'd, with magnifying his bloud, And a vaine dreame, out of the Sybill's bookes. That a third man, of that great family Whereof he is descended, the Cornely, Should be a King in Rome: which I have hir'd The flatt'ring Augures to interpret him. Cinna, and Sylla dead. Then, bold Cethegus, Whose valour I have turn'd into his peyson, And prais'd so into daring, as he would Goe on vpon the Gods, kiffe lightning, wrest The engine from the Cyclop's, and give fire At face of a full cloud, and fland his ire, When I would bid him moue. Others there are Whom enuie to the state drawes, and puts on, For contumelies received, (and fuch are fure ones) As Curius, and the fore-nam'd Lentulus, Both which have beene degraded, in the Senate. And must have their difgraces, still, newrub'd. To make hem fmart, and labour of reuenge. Others, whom meere ambition fires, and dole Of Provinces abroade, which they have faind To their crude hopes, and I as amply promife. Thefe, Lecca, Vargunteius, Bestia, Autronius, Some, whom their wants oppresse, as th'idle Captaines Of Sylla's troopes; and divers Roman Knights (The profuse wasters of their patrimonies) So threatned with debts, as they will, now, Runne any desperate fortune, for a change. These, for a time, we must relieue, Aurelia, And make our house their faue-gard. Like, for those, That feare the law, or fland within her gripe, For any act past, or to come. Such will From their owne crimes, be factious, as from ours. Some more there be flight Ayrelings, will be wonne,

V

With dogs, and horses; or, perhaps, a whore; Which must be had : And, if they venter liues, For vs, Aurelia, we must hazard honors A little. Get thee store, and change of women, As I have boyes; and give 'hem time, and place,' And all conniuence: Be thy felfe, too, courtly; And entertaine, and feast, sit vp, and reuell; Call all the great, the fayre, and spirited Dames Of Rome about thee, and beginne a fashion Of freedome, & community. Some will thanke thee, Though the sowre Senate fromne, whose heads must ake In feare, and feeling too. We must not spare Or cost, or modestie. It can but shew Like one of Inno's, or of Ione's disguises In eyther thee, or mee; and will as foone, When things succeed, be throwne by, or let fall; As is a vaile put of, a vifor chang'd, Or the Scene shifted, in our Theaters. Who's that? It is the voyce of Lentulus. AVR. Or of Cethegus. CAT. In, my faire Aurelia, And thinke vpon these artes: They must not see, How farre you are trufted with the fe privacies; Though, by their shoulders, necks, & heads you rife.

LENTULUS. CÉTHEGUS. CATILINE.

It rifeth flowly, as her follen carre

Had all the weights of fleepe, and death hung at it.

She is not rofy-ingerd, but swolne blacke.

Her face is like a water, turnd to bloud,

And her ficke head is bound about with clouds,

As if she threatned night, ere noone of day.

It does not looke, as it would have a Hayle

Or Health, wish'd in it, as on other Mornes.

CET. Why, all the fitter, Lentulus : Our comming Is not for falutation, we have bufineffe. CAT. Said nobly, braue Cethegus. Where's Autronius? CET. Is he not come? CAT. Not here. CET. Not Vargunteius? CAT. Neither. CET. Afire in their beds, and bosomes. That fo will ferue their floth, rather then vertue. They are no Romanes, and at such high neede As now. LEN. Both they, Longinus, Lecca, Curius, Fuluius, Gabinius, gaue me word, last night, By Lucius Bestia, they would all be here, And early. CET. Yes. As you, had I not call'd you. Come, we all sleepe, and are meere Dormice; Flies, A little leffe then dead : More dulneffe hangs On vs, then on the Morne. W'are spirit-bound. In ribs of ice; our whole blouds are one flone; And Honour cannot thaw vs; nor our wants, Though they burne, hot as feuers, to our states. CAT. I muse they would be rardy, at an houre Of so great purpose. CET. If the Gods had call'd Them, to a purpose, they would just have come With the same Tortoyse speed, that are thus flow To fuch an action, which the Gods will enuje. As asking no lesse meanes, then all their powers Conjoyn'd, t'effect. I would have seene Rome burn't, By this time; and her ashes in an Vrne: The Kingdome of the Senate, rent afunder; And the degenerate, talking Gowne, runne frighted, Out of the ayre of Italy. CAT. Spirit of men! Thou, heart of our great enterprise! how much Houe these voyces in thee! CET. Othe daies Of Sylla's sway, when the free sword tooke leave To act all that it would! CAT. And was familiar With entrailes, as our Augures! CET. Sonnes kild Fathers, Brothers their Brothers, CAT. And had price and praise. All hate had licence ginen it; all rage raynes. CET. Slaughter bestrid the streets, and stretch'd himselfe

To seeme more huge; whilfto his flayned thighes The gore he drew flow'd vp : and carried downe Whole heapes of limmes, and bodies, through his arch. No Age was spar'd, no Sexe. CAT. Nay, no Degree.
CET. Not Infants, in the porch of life were free. The Sicke, the Old, that could but hope a day Longer, by natures bounty, not let flay. Virgins, and Widdowes, Matrons, pregnant Wiues, All dyed, CAT. Twas crime enough, that they had lives. To strike but only those, that could doe hurt, Was dull, and poore. Some fel to make the number As some the prey. CET. The rugged Charon fainted, And ask'd a name, rather then a boate, To ferry ouer the fad world that came : The mawes, and dennes of beafts could not receive The bodies, that those foules were frighted from; And e'en the graves were fild with men yet living, Whose flight, and feare had mix'd them, with the dead. CAT. And this shall be againe, and more, and more, Now Lentulus, the third Cornelius, Is to stand up in Rome. LEN. Nay, vrge not that Is so vncertaine. CAT. How! LEN. I meane, not clear'd. And, therefore, not to be reflected on. CAT. The Sybill's leaves vncertaine? or the Comments Of our grave, deepe, divining men not cleare? LEN. All Prophecies, you know, suffer the torture. CAT. But this, already, hath confess'd without. And fo beene weigh'd, examin'd, and compar'd, As 't were malicious ignorance in him, Would faint in the beliefe. LEN. Doe you beleeue it? CAT. Doe I loue Lentulus? or pray to fee it? LEN. The Augures all are constant, I am meant. (Cinna. CAT. They had loft their science else. LE N. They count from CAT. And Sylla next, and to make you the third; All that can fay the Sunne is ris'n, must thinke it. LEN. Men marke me more, of late, as I come forth.

CAT.

CAT. Why, what can they doe leffe? Cinna, and Sylla Are fet, and gone : And we must turne our eyes On him that is, and Thines. Noble Cethegus, But view him with me, here : He lookes, already, As if he shooke a Scepter, o're the Senate, And the aw'd purple dropt their roddes, and axes. The Statues melt againe; and houshold Gods In grones confesse the travaile of the City; The very walles sweate blood before the change: And flones flart out to ruine, ere it comes. CET. But he, and we, and all are idle fill. LEN. I am your creature, Sergins: And what ere The great Cornelian Name shall winne to be, It is not Augury, nor the Sybils Bookes. But Catiline that makes it. CAT. I am shadow To honord Lentulus, and Cethegus here, Who are the heires of Mars. CET. By Mars himselfe, Catiline is more my parent : For whose vertue Earth cannot make a shadow great inough, Though Enuic should come too. O, there they'are. Now we shall talke more, though we yet doe nothing.

Avtronivs, Vargunteivs, Longinus, Cyrius, Lecca, Bestia, Fulvius, Gabinius, &c.

Haile Lucius Catiline. VAR. Haile noble Sergius.
LON. Haile Publius Lentulus. CVR. Haile the third Cornelius.
LEC. Caius Cethegus haile. CET. Haile floth, and words,
In steed of Men, and Spirits. CAT. Nay, deare Caius;
CET, Are your eyes yet vnseel'd? Dare they looke day.
In the dull face? CAT. Hee's zealous, for the affaire,
And blames your tardy comming, Gentlemen.
CET. Vnlesse, we had sold our selues to sleepe, and ease,
And would be our slaues slaues. CAT. Pray you for beare.
CET. The North is not so starke, and cold. CAT. Cethegus.

BE s. We shall redeeme all, if your fire will let vs. CAT. You are too full of lightning, noble Caises. Boy, see all doores be shut, that none approch vs, On this part of the house. Go you, and bid The Priest, he kill the flaue I mark'd last night; And bring me of his bloud, when I shall call him: Till then, waite all without. V A R. How is t, Autronius! (thing? AVT. Longinus? LON. Curius? CVR. Lecca? VAR. Feele you no-LON. A strange, vnwonted horror doth inuade me, I know not what it is! LE c. The day goes backe, Or else my senses! CvR. As at Atrem feast! Fv L. Darknesse growes more & more! LE N. The Vestall flame, I think, be out. GAB. What groane was that? CET. Our phant' fies. Strike fire, out of our felues, and force a day. AVT. Againe it founds! BEs. As all the Citie gaue it! CET. We feare what our selves faine. VAR. What light is this? CVR. Look forth. LEN. It fill grows greater. LEC. From whece Lon. A Bloody arme it is, that holds a pine (comes it? Lighted, aboue the Capitall: And, now, It waves vnto vs. CAT. Braue, and omenous! Our enterprise is seal'd. CET. In spight of darknesse, That would discountenance it. Looke no more; We loose time, and our selues: To what we came for, Speake Lucius, we attend you. CAT. Noblest Romanes, If you were leffe, or, that your faith, and vertue Did not hold good that title, with your bloud, I should not, now, unprofitably spend My selfe in words, or catch at emptie hopes, By ayrie waies, for solide certaintics. But fince in many, and the greatest dangers, I still have knowne you no lesse true, then valiant,. And that I tall, in you, the same affections, To will, or nill, to thinke things good, or bad, Alike with me: (which argues your firme friendship) I dare the boldlier, with you, set on foote, Or leade, vnto this great, and goodlieft action.

What

What I have thought of it afore, you all Haue heard apart; I then express'd my zeale Vnto the glory; Now, the neede enflames meet When I fore-thinke the hard conditions, Our states must vndergoe, except, in time, We do redeeme our selves to liberty, And breake the yron yoake, forg'd for our necks. For, what leffe can we call it? when we fee The common-wealth engross d so by a few, The Giants of the state, that do, by turnes, Enioy her, and defile her. All the Earth, Her Kings, and Tetrarchs, are their tributaries; People, and Nations pay them hourely (lipends: The riches of the world flowes to their coffers, And not, to Romes. While (but those few) the reft, How ever great we are, hones, and valiant, Are hearded with the vulgar; and so kept, As we were onely bred, to confume corne, Or weare out wooll, to drinke the Cities water: Vngrac'd, without authoritie, or marke, Trembling beneath their rods, to whom, (if all Were well in Rome) we should come forth bright axes. All Places, Honors, Offices are theirs; Or where they will conferre hem : They leave vs The dangers, the repulses, judgements, wants; Which how long will you beare most valiant spirits? Were we not better to fall, once, with vertue, Then draw a wretched, and dishonor'd breath To loofe with shame, when these mens pride will laugh? I call the faith of Gods, and Men to question; The power is in our hands; our bodies able; Our mindes as strong; O'th contrary, in them, All things growne aged, with their wealth, and yeares. There wants, but onely to beginne the bufinefle, The iffue is certaine. CET. LON. On, Let vs go on. (foule, CVR. BES. Go on, braue Sergins. CAT. It doth frike my

(And, who can scape the firoke, that hath a foule, Or, but the finallest ayre of Man within him?) To fee them swell with treasure; which they poure Out i'their riots, eating, drinking, building, I, ithe fea : planing of Hilles with Valleyes; And raying Vallies about Hilles, whilst wee Haue not, to giue our Bodies Necessaries. They ha' their change of Houses, Manors, Lordships; We scarce a fire, or poore houshold Lan. They buy rare Atticke flatues, Tyrian hangings, Ephesian pictures, and Corinthian plate; Attalicke garments, and, now new-found, Gemmes Since Pompey went for Asia; which they purchase At price of Provinces. The River Phasis Cannot affourd 'hem Fowle; nor Lucrine Lake Oysters enow: Circei, too, is fearch'd To please the witty Gluttonie of a meale. Their ancient Habitations they neglect, And fet vp new; Then, if the Echo like not In such a roome, they plucke downe those; build newer, Alter them too; and, by all franticke waies, Vexe their wild wealth, as they molest the people, From whom they force it; Yet, they cannot tame, Or ouercome their riches: Not, by making, Bathes, Orchards, Fish-pooles, letting in of seas, Here; and, then there, forcing hem out againe, With mountaynous heapes; for which the Earth hath loft Most of her ribbes, as entrayles, being now Wounded no leffe for Marble, then for gold. We, all this while, like calme, benum'd Spectators, Sit, till our seates do cracke; and doe not heare mi ai porto at The thundring ruines, whilst, at home, our wants, as ashor in mo Abroad, our debts do vrge vs, our flates daily of onworn end da !! A Bending to bad, our hopes to worfe: And, what Is left, but to be crush'd? Wake, wake braue Friends, And meete the liberty you oft have wish'd for of Behold,

CATTLINE.

Behold, renowne, riches, and glory court you. Fortune holds out these to you, as rewards. Me thinkes (though I were dumbe) th'affaire it selfe The opportunity, your needes, and dangers, the too the stall With the braue spoile the warre brings, should inuite you. Vie me your Generall, or Souldier : Neither, My Minde, nor Body shall be wanting to you. And, being Conful, I not doubt' effect, All that you wish: If Trust not flatter me, And you had, rather, fill be flaues, then free. (for. CET. Free, free. LON. Tis freedome. CVR. Freedome we all fland CAT. Why, these are noble voices. Nothing wants then, But that we take a folemne Sacrament, To firengthen our designe. CET. And so to act it. Differring hurts, where powers are most prepard. A v T. Yet, ere we enter into open act, (With fauour)'t were no loffe, if't might be enquir'd What the Condition of these Armes would be? (Friendes! VAR. I, and the meanes, to carry vs through. CAT. How, Thinke you, that I would bid you, graspe the winde? Or call you to th'embracing of a cloude? Put your knowne valures on to deare a bufineffe, and the And have no other second then the Danger, Nor other Gyrland then the loffe? Become Your owne affurances. And, for the meanes, Confider, first, the starke security The common wealth is in, now; the whole Senate Sleepy, and dreaming no fuch violent blow; Their forces all abroade; of which the greateff, That might annoy vs most, is fardest off, In Asia, vnder Pompey: Those, neare hand, Commanded, by our friendes; one Army in Spaine, The Lord By Cneus Pife; th'other in Mauritania, medical be sould work By Nucerinus; both which I have firme, And fast vnto our Plot. My selfe, then, standing Now to be Conful; with my hop'd Colleague NOY Cains

Caius Antonius, one, no lesse engag'd anton antonius line a By his wants then we: And whom I have power to melt. And cast in any mould. Beside, some others That will not yet be nam'd, (both fure, and Great ones) Who, when the time comes, shall declare themselves, which we Strong, for our party; fo, that no reliftance In nature can be thought. For our reward, then First, all our Debts are paid; Dangers of Law, Actions, Decrees, Judgments against vs quitted, The rich Men, as in Sylla's times, proferib'd, And Publication made of all their goods; That House is yours; That Land is his; Those Waters, Orchards, and walkes a third's: He'has that Honor, And he that Office: Such a Province fals To Vargunteius: This to Autronius: That To bold Cethegus: Rome to Lentulus: You share the World, her Magistracies, Priest-hoods, Wealth, and Felicity amongst you, Friendes; And Catiline your servant. Would you, Curius, Reuenge the Contumelie stucke vpon you, In being remoued from the Senate? Now. Now, is your time. VVould Publius Lentulus Strike, for the like difgrace? Now, is his time. VV ould flout Longinus walke the streets of Rome, Facing the Prator? Now, has he a time To spurne, and treade the Fasces, into dirt Made of the V furers, and the Littors braines. Is there a Beauty, here in Rome, you loue? An Enemie you would kill? What Head's not yours? VVhose Wife, which Boy, whose Daughter, of what race, That th'Husband, or glad Parents shall not bring you, And boaffing of the office? Only, spare 100 ye and and Your selues, and you have all the earth befide. A field, to exercise your longings in. I see you rais'd, and reade your forward mindes High, i'yourfaces. Bring the wine, and blood

CAURE

CATALINE

You have prepar'd there. Low How! CAT. I have kill'da flaue, And of his blood caus'd to be mixt with wines Fill every man his bowle. There cannot be A fitter drinke, to make this Santtion in. Here, I beginne the Sacrament to all a ment of ont not a said O, for a clap of thunder now, as loud, depute to all models As to be heard through-out the Vniuerfe, 27 27 20 20 20 20 To tell the world the fact, and to applaude it. Be firme, my hand; not shed a drop : but poure Fiercenesse into me, with it; and fell thirst Of more, and more: Till Rome be left as blood-leffe, we have As ever her feares made her, or the fword. And, when I leave to wish this to thee, Stepdame Or flop, to effect it, with my powers fainting; So may my blood be drawne, and fo drunke vp As is this flaues. Low. And so be mine. LEN. And mine. AVT. And mine. VAR. And mine. CET. Cowne me my bowle yet Here, I doe drinke this, as I would doe Cato's, (fuller. Or the new fellow Cicero's: with that you Which Catiline hath given. CvR. So doe I. LEC. And I. BES. And I. FVL. And I. GAB. And all of vs. CAT. Why, now's the bufineffe fafe, & each man strengthned. Sirah, what aile you? PAG. Nothing. BES. Somewhat modell. CAT. Slave, I will firike your foule out, with my foote, Let me but finde you againe with fuch a face: You Whelpe. BES. Nay Lucius. CAT. Are you coying it, When I command you to be free, and generall To all? BES. You'll be obseru'd. CAT. Arise, and shew But any least auersion i' your looke To him that bourdes you next, and your throate opens. Noble Confederates, thus farre is perfect. Only your fuffrages I will expect, Saura I and the At the affembly for the choosing Confuls, And all the voices you can make by friendes To my election. Then let me worke out Your fortunes, and mine owne. Meane while, all reft

CATALINE.

Seal'd vp, and filent, as when rigid frosts

Haue bound vp Brookes, and Rivers, forc'd wild beasts

Vnto their caues, and birds into the woods,

Clownes to their houses, and the Countrey sleepes;

That, when the sodaine thaw comes, we may breake

Vpon hem like a deluge, bearing downe

Halfe Rome before vs, and inuade the rest

Vith cries, and noise able to wake the Vrnes

Of those are dead, and make their ashes feare.

"The horrors, that doe strike the world, should come

"Loud, and vnlook'd for; Till they strike, be dumbe.

CET. Oraculous Sergius. LEN. God-like Catiline.

CHORVS.

Some Try blood be drawcellend An nothing great, and at the height
Remaine so long? but it's owne weight VVill ruine it? Or, is't blinde Chance, That still defires new States t'aduance, And quit the old? Elfe, why must Rome Be by it felfe; now, ouercome? Hath thee not foes inow of those, VVhom thee hath made fuch, and enclose Her round about? Or, are they none, Except shee first become her owne? wretchednesse of greatest States, To be obnoxious to thefe Fates: That cannot keepe, what they doe gaine; And what they raise so ill sustaine. Rome, now, is Mistresse of the whole VVorld, Sea, and Land, to either Pole; And even that Fortune will destroy The power that made it. Shee doth ioy Somuch in plenty, wealth, and ease, As, now, thexcesse is her disease. Shee builds in gold; And, to the Starres

As, if thee threatned Heavin with warres; And feekes for Hell, in quarries deepe, Giving the fiends, that there doe keepe, A hope of day. Her Women weare The spoiles of Nations, in an eare, Chang'd for the treasure of a shell; And, in their loofe attires, doe fwell More light then failes, when all windes play: Yet, are the men more loofe then they, More kemb'd, and bath'd, and rub'd, and trim'd. More fleek'd, more foft, and flacker limm'd; As proflicute: fo much, that kinde May seeke it selfe there, and not finde. They eate on beds of filke, and gold; At yuorietables; or, wood fold Dearer then it : and, leaving plate, Doe drinke in sone of higher rate. They hunt all grounds; and draw all seas; Foule enery brooke, and bush; to please Their wanton talts: and, in request Haue new, and rare things; not the best.

Hence comes that wild, and vast expence,
That hath enforc'd Romes vertue, thence,
Which simple pouerty first made;
And, now, ambition doth inuade
Her state, with eating anarice.
Riot, and enery other vice.
Decrees are bought, and Lawes are sold,
Honors, and Offices for gold;
The peoples voices: And the free
Tongues, in the Senate, bribed bee.
Such ruine of her manners Rome
Doth suffer now, as shee's become
(Without the Gods it soone gaine-say)
Both her owne spoiler, and owne pray.
So, Asia, 'art thou cru'lly enen

With

CATILINE:

With vs, for all the blowes thee given; When we, whose vertue conquer'd thee, Thus, by thy vices, ruin'd bee.

Ad. ij.

FULVIA, GALLA,

Hose Roomes doe smell extremely; Bring my glasse, And table hither, Galla. GAL. Madame. Fy L. Looke VVithin, i'my blew Cabinet, for the pearle I'had sent me last, and bring it. GAL. That from Clodines? Fv L. From Cains Cafar. You'are for Cledius, Still. Or Carins. Sich 2, if Quintus Carins come, I am not in fit moode; I keepe my Chamber: Giue warning so, without. GAL. Is this it? Madame. Fv L. Yes, helpe to hang it in mine care. GAL. Belceue me, It is a rich one, Madame. Fv L. I hope fo: It should not be worne there else. Make an end. And binde my haire vp. GAL. As twas yesterday? Fv L. No, nor the t'other day. When knew you me Appeare, two dayes together, in one dreffing? GAL. Will you ha't i'the globe, or spire? Fv L. How thou wilt; Any way, so thou wilt doe it, good Impertinence. Thy company, if I slept not very well A nights, would make me, an errant foole, with questions. GAL. Alas Madam. Fv L. Nay gentle halfe o'the Dialogue, ceafe. GAL. I doe it, indeede, but for your exercise, As your Philitian bids me. Fv L. How! Do's he bid you To anger me for exercise? GAL. Not to anger you, But Rirre your blood 2 little : There's difference Betweene luke-warme, and boyling, Madaine. Fv L. Ione! Shee meanes to cooke me, I thinke? Pray you, ha' done. GAL.

GAL. Imeane to dreffe you, Madame. FVL. Omy Inno. Be friend to me! Offring at wit, too? Why, Galla! Where hall thou been? GAL. Why, Madame? FyL. What hall thou With thy poore innocent felfe? GAL. Wherfore, sweet Madam? Fy L. Thus to come forth, fo fedsinly, a wit-worme? GAL. It pleases you to flout one. I did dreame Of Ladie Sempronia. Fy L. O, the wonder is out. That did infect thee? VVell, and how? GAL. Me thought. Shee did discourse the best. Fy L. That ever thou heard's? GAL. Yes. Fy L. I thy fleepe? Of what was her discourse? GAL. O'the Republicke, Madame, and the State, And how thee was in debt, and where thee meant To raise fresh summes: Shee's a great States-woman. Fyl. Thou dreamp'th all this? GAL. No, but you know the is Ma-And both a Mistresse of the Latine tongue, And of the Greeke. Fv L. I, but I never dreampt it, Galla, As thou haft done, and therefore you must pardon me. GAL. Indeede, you mocke me, Madame. Fy L. Indeede, no. Forth with your learned Ladie: Shee has a wit, too? GAL. A very masculine one. FV L. A shee-Griticke, Galla? And can compose, in verse, and make quicke iests, Modeft, or otherwise? GAL. Yes Madame. Fy L. She can fing, too? And play on Inftruments? GAL. Of all kindes, they fay. Fy L. And doth dance rarely? GAL. Excellent, So well, As a bald Senator made a jeft, and faid, Twas better, then an honest woman neede. Fy L. Tut, shee may beare that. Few wise womens honesties Will doe their courtship hurt, GAL. Shee's liberall too, Madam. FVI. VVhat of her money, or her honor, pray thee? GAL. Of both, you know not which thee doth spare least. FV L. A comely commendation. GAL. Troth, tis pitty Shee is in yeares. For L. VVhy Gulla? GAI. For it is. FV L. O, is that all? I thought thou had had a reason. GAL. VVhy fo I have. Shee has beene a fine Ladie, And, yet, thee dreffes herfelfe, (except you Madame) One o' the best in Rome: and paints, and hides Her

CATALINE:

Her decayes very well. Fv L. They fay, it is Rather a visor, then a face shee weares. GAL. They wrong her verily Madame, shee do's sleeke With crums of bread, and milke, and lies a nights In as neate gloues. But thee is faine of late To seeke, morethen shee's sought to (the same is) And so spends that way. Fv L. Thou knowst all. But Galla, VVhat fay you to Catilines Ladie, Orestella? There is the Gallant. GAL. Shee do's well. Shee has Very good futes, and very rich : but, then, Shee cannot put hem on. Shee knowes not, how To weare a garment. You shall have her all Iewels, and gold sometimes, so that her selfe-Appeares the least part of her selfe. No' in troth, As I liue, Madame, you put'hem all downe With your meere strength of judgement; and doe draw, too, The world of Rome to follow you : you attire Your selfe so diversly, and with that spirit; Still to the noblest humors. They could make Loue to your dreffe, although your face were away, they fay, FV L. And body too, and ha' the better match on't? Say they not so too, Galla? Now! What newes Trauailes your count nance with? SER. If t please you, Madan The Ladie Sempronia is lighted at the gate; GAL. Caftor, my dreame, my dreame. SER. And comes to fee you GAL. For Venus fake, good Madame fee her. Fy L. Peac The foole is wild, I thinke. GAL. And heare her talke, Sweet Madame, of State-matters, and the Senate.

SEMPRONIA, FULVIA, GALLA.

Whither are you thus early address? SEM. To see Aurelia Oresissa. Shee sent for me...

I came to call thee, with mee; wilt thou goe?

Fv L. I cannot now, in troth, I have some letters.

To write, and send away. SEM. Alas, I pitty thee.

I ha' bene writing all this night, (and am a box box So very weary) vnto all the Tribes, which was a series of the series of And Centuries, for their voyces, to helpe Catiline, In his election. We shall make him Conful I hope, amonghts. Craffin, I, and Cafar to see Action Will carry it for him. F v L. Do's he stand for it? SEM. H'is the chiefe Candidate, FVL. Who stands besidet Giue me some wine, and poulder for my teeth. SEM. Here's a good pearle in troth. F v L. A prettie one. SEM. A very orient one. There are Competitors, Cains Antonius, Publius Galba, Lucius Cassius Longinus, Quintus Cornificius, Caine Licinius, and that talker, Cicero. But Catiline, and Antonisu will be chosen. For foure of the other, Licinius, Longinus, Galba, and Cornificing will give way, And Cicero they will not choose. F v 1. No? Why? SEM. It will be croffed, by the Nobility. GAL. How she do's vndersland the common busines! SEM. Nos, were it fit. He is but a new fellow, An In-mate here in Rome (as Catsline calls him) And, the Patricians should doe very ill, To let the Conful-ship be so defil'd As't would be, if he obtain'd it? A meere vpftart, That has no pedigree, no house, no coate, No enfignes of a family? Fv L. He has vertue. SEM. Hang vertue, where there is no blood: tis vice And, in him, fawcineffe. Why should he prefume To be more learned, or more eloquent, Then the Nobility? or boat any quality Worthie a Noble man, himselfe not noble? F v L. Twas vertue onely, at first, made all men noble. SE M. I yeeld you, it might, at first, in Romes poore age: When both her Kings, and Confuls held the plough, Or garden'd well: But, now, we ha' no need, To digge, or loose our sweat for t. We have wealth,

D 3

Fortune

Fortune and ease, and then their flocke, to spendon, Of Name, for Vertue, which will beare vs out Gainstall new commers; and can neuer faile vs, While the fuccession stayes. And, we must glorifie A Mushrome? one of yesterday? a fine speaker? 'Cause he has suck'd at Hibens ? and advance him, To our owne loffe ! No Fulnia, There are they Can speake Greeke too, if need were, Cafar and I Haue fate vponhim; fo hath Graffet, too; And others. We have all decreed his reft, and over A For rifing farder, GAL Excellent rare Lady! Fv L. Sempronia, you are beholden to my woman, here. She do's admire you. SEM. O good Galla, how dost thou? GAL. The better, for your learned Ladiflaip. SEM. Is this grey poulder, a good Dentifrice? of the such 101 Fv L. You fee I vie it. SEM. I have one is whiter FV L. It may be fo. SEM. Yet this smels well. GAL. And clenses Very well, Madam, and refifts the crudities. SEM. Fulsia, I pray thee, who comes to thee, now? Which of our great Patricians? Fv L. Faith, I keepe No Catalogue of hem. Sometimes I have one Sometimes another, as the toy takes their blouds. SEM. Thou haft them all. Faith, when was Quintus Curius. Thy speciall servant, here? Fy L. My speciall servant? SEM. Yes, thy Idolater, I call him. Fy L. He may be yours, If you do like him. SEM. How! Fr L. He comes, not, here, I haue forbid him, hence. SEM. Venus forbid! FV L. Why? SE M. Your so constant Louer. FV L. So much the I would have change. So would you too, I am fure. And now, you may have him. SEM. Hee's fresh yet, Faluia: Beware, how you do tempt mee. Fv L. Faith, for mee, He' is somewhat too fresh, indeed. The salt is gone, That gaue him season. His good gifts are done. He do's not yeeld the crop that he was wont. And, for the act, I can have fecret fellowes, With backs worth ten of him, and shall please mee of the of

(Now

CATADINE.

(Now that the Land is fled) a myriade better. (dings, SEM. And those one may command. Fy L. Tis true, These Lor-Your noble Faunes, they are fo imperious, faucy, Rude, and as boystrous as Centaures; leaping A Ladie, at first fight. SEM. And must be borne Both with, and out, they thinke. Fv 1. Tut, Ile obserue None of 'hem all: nor humor 'hem a jot Longer, then they come laden in the hand, And fay, here's tone, for th' tother. SE M. Do's Cafar give well Fy v. They shall all give, and pay well, that come here If they will have it : and that iewels, pearle, Plate, or round fummes, to buy thefe. I am not taken With a Cob-Swan, or a high-mounting Bull, As foolish Leda, and Europa were, But the bright gold, with Danae. For fuch price, I would endure, a rough, harth Impiter, Or ten such thundring Gamsters; and tefraine To laugh at 'hem, till they are gone, with my much suffring. SEM. Th'art a most happy wench, that thus canst make Vie of thy youth, and freshnesse, in the season: And hast it to make vie of. Fv L. (Which is the happinesse) SEM. I am, now, faine to give to them, and keepe Musique, and a continuall Table, to inuite 'hem; Fy L. Yes, and they studie your kitchin, more then your SEM. Eate my felfe out with viury, and my Lord, too, And all my officers, and friends befide, To procure moneyes, for the needfull charge I must be at, to have 'hem: And, yet, scarce Can I atchieue 'hem, fo. FVI. Why, that's because You affect yong faces onely, and smooth chinnes, Sempronia. If youl'd loue beards, and briffles. (One with another, as others doe) or wrinkles-Who's that? Looke Galla, GAL, Tis the partie, Madame, FV L. What party? Has he no name? GA L. Tis Quintus Comine. Fv L. Did I not bid 'hem, fay, I kept my chamber? GAL. Why, so they do. SEM. He leave you, Fulma.

CATALINE.

Pv L. Nay, good Sempronia, stay, SEM. In faith, I will not.

Fv L. By Inno, I would not see him. SEM. He not hinder you.

GAL. You know, he will not be kept out, Madam. SEM. No,

Nor shall not, carefull Galla, by my meanes.

Fv L. As I doe line, Sempronia. SEM. What needs this?

Fv L. Go, say, I am asseepe, and ill at ease.

SEM. By Castor, no; I'le tell him, you are awake;

And very well. Stay Galla. Farewell Fuluia:

I know my manners. Why doe you labour, thus,

With action, against purpose? Quintus Curius,

She is, yfaith, here, and in disposition:

Fv L. Spight, with your courtesie. How shall I be tortured:

CURIVS, FULVIA, GALLA

TATHere are you, fayre one, that conceale your felfe; And keepe your beauty, within lockes, and barres, here Like a fooles treasure? F v L. True, she was a foole, -When, first, she shew'dit to a theefe. CvR. How prety Solennesse! So harsh, and short? F v L. The fooles Artillery, fir. Cv R. Then, take my gowne off, for the encounter. Fv L. Stay fir. I am not in the moode. Cv R. Ile put you into't. Fv L. Best, put your selfe, i'your case againe, and keepe Your furious appetite warme, against you have place for't. CvR. What! do you coy it? Fv L. No fir. I'am not proud. CvR. I would you were. You thinke, this state becomes you? By Hercules, it do's not. Looke i'your glaffe, now, And fee, how sciruely that countenance shewes; You would be loth to owne it. F v L. I shall not change it. Cv R. Faith, but you must; and Ilacke this bended brows And shoote lesse scorne: There is a Fortune comming Towards you, Daintie, that will take thee, thus, And fer thee aloft, to tread voon the head Of her owne statue here in Rome. Fy L. I wonder, Who let this Promifer in! Did you, good Diligence? Giue him his bribe, againe. Or if you had none.

CATFLINGE.

Pray you demand him, why he is To ventrous, To presse, thus, to my chamber, being forbidden Both, by my felfe, and feruants? Cv R. How! This's handforme! And somewhat a new straine! Fv L. 'Tis not strain'd, Sir. Tis very naturall. Cv R. I have knowne it otherwise, Betweene the parties, though, F v L. For your fore-knowledge, Thanke that, which made it. It will not be fo, Hereafter, I assure you. Cv R. No, my Mistresse? Fy L. No though you bring the same materials. CvR. Heare me, You ouer act when you should vinderdoe A little call your selfe againe, and thinke. If you doe this to practife on me or finde At what forc'd distance you can hold your seruant; That'it be an artificiall tricke, to enflame, And fire me more, fearing my love may neede it, As, heretofore, you ha' done; why, proceede. Fy L. As I ha' done heretofore? CvR. Yes, when you'ld faine Your husbands iealousie, your servants watches, Speake foftly, and runne often to the dore, Or to the windore, forme flrange feares that were not; As if the pleasure were lesse acceptable, That were fecure. Fv I You are an impudent fellow. C v R. And, when you might better have done it, at the gate, To take me in at the casement. Fv L. I take you in? Cv R. Yes, you my Lady, And, then, being abed with you, To haue your well taught wayter, here, come running, And cry, her Lord, and hide me without cause, Crush'd in a cheft, or thrust vp in a chimney. When he, tame Crow, was winking at his Farme; Or, had he beene here, and present, would have kept Both eyes, and beake scal'd vp, for fixe sefterces. Fv L. Youhaue a flanderous, beaftly, vnwash'd tongue, I'your rude mouth, and fauouring your felfe, Vn-manner'd Lord. Cvr. How now! Fvr. It is your title, Sir. Who (fince you ha' loft your owne good name, and know not What to loofe more) care not, whose honor you wound,

Or fame you poylon with it. You should goe, And vent your felfe, i' the region, where you live, Among the Suburbe-Brothels, Baudes, and Brokers, Whither your broken fortunes have defign'd you. Cy R. Nay, then I must stop your furie, I see; and plucke The tragicke visor off. Come, Ladie Cypris, Know your owne vertues, quickly. Ile not be Put to the woing of you thus, afresh, At every turne, for all the Venus in you. Yeeld, and be pliant; or by Pollux --- How now? Will Law turne a Lucrece? Fv L. No, but by Gafter, Hold off your Rauishers hands, I pierce your heart, else. Ile not be put to kill my felfe, as fhee did For you, sweet Tarquine. What? doe you fall off? Nay, it becomes you graciously. Put not vp. You'll fooner draw your weapon on me, I thinke it, Then on the Senate, who have cast you forth Difgracefully, to be the common tale Of the whole Citty; base, infamous Man: For, were you other, you would there imploy Your desperate dagger: Cv R. Fuluia, you doe know The strengths you have vpon me; Doe not vie Your power too like a Tyran : I can beare, Almost vntill you breake me. Fv 1. I doe know, Sir, So do's the Senate, too, know, you can beare. C v R. By all the Gods, that Senate will smart deepe For your vpbraidings. I should be right forry To have the meanes fo to be veng'd on you, (At least, the will) as I shall shortly on them. But, goe you on still : Fare you well, deare Ladie; You could not still be faire vnlesse you were proud. You will repent these moodes, and ere't be long, too. I shall ha' you come about, againe. Fv L. Doe you thinke so? CvR. Yes, and I know fo. FvL. By what Augury? C v R. By the faire Entrailes of the Matrons chests, Gold, Pearle, and Iewels, here in Rome, which Fulnia

CATFLINGE.

Will then (but late) say that shee might have shar'd. And, grieuing, misse. F v L. Tut, all your promis'd Mountaines And Seas, I am so stalely acquainted with C v R. But, when you see the vninerfall floud Runne by your coffers; that my Lords, the Senators, Are fold for flaues, their Wives for bond-women, Their Houses, and fine Gardens given away, And all their goods, vnder the Speare, at out-cry, And you have none of this; but are still Fulma, Or perhaps leffe, while you are thinking of it: You will aduise then, Coynesse, with your cushion, And looke o' your fingers; fay, how you were wish'd; And so, he left you. Fv L. Call him againe, Galla: This is not viuall, fomething hangs on this That I must winne out of him. Cv R. Hownow, meltyou? Fv L. Come, you will laugh, now, at my easinesse? But, 'tis no miracle; Doues, they fay, will bill, After their pecking, and their murmuring. CvR. Yes. And then 'tis kindly. I would have my Loue Angry, sometimes, to sweeten off the rest Fy L. You doe fee, I fludy Of her behaulour. How I may please you, then. But you thinke, Curius Tis couetise hath wrought me; If you love me Change that vnkinde conceipt. CvR. Bymy lou'd foule, I loue thee, like to it; and tis my fludy, More then mine owne reuenge, to make thee happy. Fv L. And'tis that iust revenge doth make me happy To heare you prosequite: and which, indeede, Hath wonne me, to you, more, then all the hope Of what can else be promis'd. I loue valour Better, then any Ladie loues her face, Or dreffing: then my felfe de's. Let me grow Still, where I doe embrace. But what good meanes Ha' you t'effect it? Shall I know your project? CvR. Thou shalt, if thou It be gracious. Fv L. As I can be CvR. And wilt thou kiffe me, then? Fv L. As close as fhels

Of Cockles meet. Cvn. And print hem deep? Fv L. Quite through Our fubtle lips. CvR. And often? Fv L. I will fow hem. Faster then you can reape. What is your plot? C v R. Why, now my Fuluia lookes, like her bright name, And is her selfe. Fy L. Nay, answere me, your plots I pray thee tell me, Quintus. Cv R. I, thefe founds Become a Mistresse. Here is harmony. When you are harsh, I fee, the way to bend you Is not with violence, but service, Cruell, A Lady is a fire, gentle, a light. Fv L. Will you not tell me, what I aske you? Cv R. All, That I can thinke, fweet Loue, or my breast holds, Ile poure into thee. Fy L. What is your designe, then? C v R. Ile tell thee; Catiline shall now be Consull: But, you will heare more, shortly. Fv L. Nay, deare Loue. CvR. Ile speake it, in thine armes; Let vs goe in. Rome will be fack'd, her wealth will be our prize; By publique ruine, private spirits must rife.

CHORVS.

Reat Father Mars, and greater Ione,

By whose high auspice, Rome hath stood

So long; and, first, was built in blood

Of your great Nephew, that then strong

Not with his brother, but your Rites:

Be present to her now, as then,

And let not proud, and factious Men

Against your willes oppose their mights.

Our Consuls, now, are to be made;

O, put it in the publique voice

To make a free, and worthy choice;

Excluding such as would inuade

The Common wealth. Let whom we name

Haue wisedome, foresight, fortitude,

Be more with saith, then sace endu'd,

CATFLINE.

And fludy conscience, about same. Such, as not feeke to get the flart In State, by power, parts, or bribes, Ambition's baudes; but moue the Tribes By vertue, modefly, defart. Such, as to iustice will adhære, What ever great one it offend, And from the embraced truth not bend For enuie, hatred, gifts, or feare. That, by their deedes, will make it knowne, Whose dignity they doe fullaine; his read the And life, flate, glory, all they gaine, Count the Republiques, not their owne. Such the old Bruti, Decy were, Alle Willy The Cipi, Curty, who did give Themselves for Rome : And would not live.

As men, good, only for a yeare. Such were the great Camille, too;

The Fabi, Seipro's that flill thought No worke, at price inough, was bought, a loos of That for their Countrey they could doe.

And, to her honor, to did knit; on oth proof work As all their acts were vnderflood de show oder The finewes of the Publique good: And they themselves, one soule, with it These men were truely Magistrates; in 10, 5100 hope and

These neither practiffd force, nor formes; Nor did they leave the helme, in flormes: And fuch they are make happy States. I have

Act.

A later violen Rul Kennly

Members and he held menes

ment the of the Side and the a water and the second of the same

Act. iij.

CICERO, CATO, CATVLYS, ANTONIVS, CRASSVS, CABSAR, CHORVS, LICTORS.

Reat Honors are great burdens: But, on whom They are cast with enuy, he doth beare two loades. His cares must still be double to his loyes, In any Dignity; where, if he erre He findes no pardon: and, for doing well A most small praise, and that wrung out, by force. I speake this, Romanes, knowing what the weight Of the high charge, you have trufted to me, is. Not, that thereby I would with art decline The good, or greatnesse of your benefit; For, I ascribe it to your singular grace And vow, to owe it to no title elfe, Except the Gods, that Cicero'is your Conful. I haue no venes; no dustie moniments; No broken images of ancestors, Wanting an eare, or nose; no forged tables Of long descents, to boast false honors from; Or be my vndertakers to your trust. But a new Man (as I am fil'd in Rome) Whom you have dignified; and more, in whom Yo'haue cut a way, and left it ope for vertue Hereafter, to that place, which our Great men Held shut vp, with all rampires, for themselues. Nor have but few of them, in time bene made Your Consuls so; New men, before mee, none: At my first suite; In my just yeare; Preferd

CATFLINE.

To all Competitors; and some the noblest. (haue CRA. Now the vaine swels. CAE'S. Vp glory. CIC. And to Your lowde confents, from your owne vtter'd voyces; Not filent bookes : nor from the meaner tribes, But first, and last, the vniuerfall concourse. This is my ioy, my gladnesse. But my care, My industrie, and vigilance now must worke, That still your counsell of me be approu'd; Both, by your felues, and those, to whom you have, With grudge, prefer'd mee: Two things I must labour, That neither they vpbraid, nor you repent you. For every lapse of mine will, now, be call'd Your error; if I make such. But, my hope is. So to beare through, and out, the Confulship, As spight shall ne're wound you, though it may mee. And, for my felfe, I have prepar'd this ftrength, To do so well; as, if there happen ill Vnto me, it shall make the Gods to blush, And be their crime, not mine, that I am enui'd; CAES. O confidence! more new, then is the Man! CIC. I know well, in what termes I doe receive The Common wealth, how vexed, how perplex'd: In which, there's not that mischiefe, or ill fate, That good men feare not, wicked men expect not. I know, beside, some turbulent practises Alreadie on foote, and rumors of moe dangers, CR A. Or you will make them, if there be none. Cr c. Laft, I know, twas this, which made the enuy, and pride Of the Great Romane bloud bate, and give way To my election. CAT. Marcus Tullius, true; Our neede made thee our Confull, and thy vertue. C AE s. Cato, you will vndoe him, with your praise. CAT. Cafar will hurt himselfe, with his owne enuic. CHO. The voyce of Cato is the voyce of Rome. CAT. The voyce of Rome is the consent of Heauen; And that hath plac'd thee, Cicero, at the helme, Where rbu?

Where thou must render, now, thy felfe a Man, begge Daso I And Master of thy art. Each pettie hand Can steere a ship becalm'd; but he that will Gouerne, and carry her to her endes, must know His tides, his currents; how to thift his fayles; What the will beare in foule, what in faire weathers: Where her springs are, her leaks; & how to stop hem; What fands, what shelves, what rocks do threate her; The forces, and the natures of all winds, Gulls, florines, & tempells; when her keele ploughs hell And decke knocks heaven : then, to manage her Becomes the name, and office of a Pilot. CIC. Which I'le performe, with all the diligence, And fortitude I have; not for my yeare, But for my life; except my life be leffe, And that my yeare conclude it: If it muft, and the liver to the Your will, lou'd Gods. This heart shall yet employ A day, an houre is left me, fo, for Rome. As it shall spring a life, out of my death, To shine, for ever glorious in my facts: "The vicious count their yeares, vertuous their acts. Сно. Most noble Conful! Let vs wait him home. C AE s. Most popular Consul he is growne, me thinkes. CR A. How the rout cling to him! CAE's. And Cato leads' hem! CR A. You, his colleague, Antonius, are not look't on. ANT. Not I, nor do I care. CAEs. He enioyes reft, And ease, the while. Let th'others spirit toyle, And wake it out, that was inspir'd for turmoyle. CATV. If all reports be true, yet, Cains Cafar, The time hath neede of fuch a watch, and spirit: CAE s. Reports? Do you beleeue hem Catulus, Why, he do's make, and breed 'hem for the people; T'endeare his service to 'hem. Do you not tast An art, that is so common? Popular men, They must create strange Monsters, and then quell'hem; To make their artes seeeme something. Would you have

Such

Such an Herculean Actor in the Scene, work land And not his Hydra? They must sweat no lesse To fit their properties, then t'expresse their parts. "CR A. Treasons, and guiltie men are made in States "Too oft, to dignifie the Magistrates. "CATV. Those States be wretched, that are forc'd to buy "Their Rulers fame, with their owne infamy. CR A. We therefore, should provide that ours do not. CAES. That will Antonius make his care. ANT. Ishall. CAES. And watch the watcher. CAT v. Here comes Catilines How do's he brooke his late repulse? CAEs. I know not. But hardly fure. CAT. Longinus, too, did fland? CAE s. At first: But he gave way vnto his friend. CATV. Who's that come? Lentulus? CAEs. Yes. He is againe Taken into the Senate. ANT. And made Prætor. CAT. I know't. He had my fuffrage, next the Confuls; CAE's. True, you were there, Prince of the Senate, then.

CATILINE, ANTONIUS, CATULUS, CAESAR. CRASSUS, LONGI-NVS, LENTULUS.

Ayle noblest Romanes. The most worthy Consul,
I gratulate your Honor. An T. I could wish
It had been happier, by your fellowship,
Most noble Sergim, had it pleas'd the people.
CATI. It did not please the Gods; who instruct the people.
And their vnquestion'd pleasures must be seru'd.
They know what's fitter for vs, then our selves;
And twere impiety, to thinke against them.
CATV. You beare it rightly, Lucius, and it glads mee,
To find your thoughts so even. CATI. I shall still Studie to make them such to Rome, and Heaven.
I would withdraw with you, a little, Islius.
CAES. Ile come home to you! Crassus would not he you
To speake to him, fore Quintus Capsus.

F

CATI

CATI. Japprehend you. No, when they shall judge Honors convenient for me, I shall have 'hem, With a full hand: I know it. In meane time, They are no leffe part of the Common-wealth, That doe obey, then those, that doe command. CATV. O, let me kisse your forehead, Lucius. How are you wrongd ! CATI. By whom? CATV. Publicke re-That gives you out, to flomacke your repulse; And brooke it deadly. CATT. Sir: The brookes not me. Belieue me rather, and your felfe, now, of mee; It is a kinde of flaunder, to truff rumour. CATV. I know it. And I could be angrie with it. CATI. So may not I. Where it concernes himselfe, Who's angry at a flander, makes it true. CATV. Most noble Sergins! This your temper melts me. CRA. Will you do office to the Conful, Quintus? CAES. That Cato, and the Rout have done the other? CATV. I waite, when he will goe. Be fill your felfe. He wants no flate, or honors, that hath vertue, CATI. Did I appeare so tame, as this man thinks mee? Look'd I so poore, so dead? So like that nothing, Which he calls vertuous? O my breast, breake quickly; And shew my friends my in-parts, least they thinke I haue betraid hem. Lon. Where's Gabinius? LEN. Gone. LON. And Vargunteins? LEN. Slipt away; all shrunke: Now that he mist the Consul-ship. CATI. I am The scorne ofbond-men; who are next to beasts. What can I worse pronounce my selfe, that's fitter? The Owle of Rome, whom Boyes, and Sirles will hout; That were I fet vp, for that woodden God, That keepes our gardens, could not fright the crowes, Or the least Bird from muting on my head lead good mor burte T L o N. Tis strange how he should misse it. L EN. Is that stranger, The vpftart Cicero should carry it for more dans variable a bloom By all confents, from men fo much his Masters? 200000 1 18 84 LON. Tis true. CAT P. To what a shadow, am I melted! LON.

CAT FLINE.

LON. Antonius wan it but by fome few voyces. CATI. Strooke through, like ayre, and feele it not. My wounds Close faster, then they're made. LEN. The whole deligne, And enterprise is lost by't. All handes quit it, Vpon his fayle. CATI. I grow mad at my patience. It is a Visor that hath poylon'd mee. Would it had burnt me vp, and I died inward: My heart first turn'd to ashes. Lo N. Here's Cethegus yet.

> CATILINE, CETHEGUS, LEN-TVLVS, LONGINVS, COA TO. DOD A PRINTER

R Epulse vpon repulse? An In-mate, Conful? That I could reach the axell, where the pinnes are, Which bolt this frame; that I might pull hem out, And plucke all into Chaos, with my felfe. CET. What, are we wishing now? CATI. Yes, my Cethegue. Who would not fall with all the world about him? CET. Not I, that would fland on it, when it falles; And force new Nature out, to make another. These wishings taste of woman, not of Romane. Let vs feeke other armes. CATI. What should we do? CET. Do, & not wish; something, that wishes take not: So fodaine, as the Gods should not preuent. Nor scarce haue time, to feare. CATI. Onoble Caim! CET. It likes me better, that you are not Conful. I would not goe through open dores, but breake 'hem; Swim to my ends, through bloud; or build a bridge Of carcasses; make on, vpon the heads Of men, strooke downe, like piles; to reach the lives Of those remaine, and stand : Then is't a pray, When Danger Roppes, and Ruine makes the way. CATI. How thou doff vtter me, braue foule, that may not At all times, shew such as I am; but bend Vnto occasion? Lentulus, this man, LA

CATALINES.

Out of the hand of Ione; and rivet him To Cancasus, should he but frowne: and let His owne gaunt Eagle flie at him, to tire. LEN. Peace, here comes Cato. CAT. Lethim come, and heare. I will no more dissemble. Quit vs all; woo die sale noted a selection I, and my lou'd Cethegus here, alone Will vndertake this Giants warre, and cary it. I. E N. What needs this, Lucius? L o N. Sergius be more wary. CATI. Now, Marcus Cate, our new Confuls spic, What is your fowre aufterity fent t'explore. CATO. Nothing in thee, licentious Catiline: Halters, and racks cannot expresse from thee More, then thy deeds. Tis onely judgement waits thee. CATI, Whose? Cato's? Shall he judge me? CAT. No, the Gods "Who, euer, follow those, they go not with: And Senate; who, with fire, must purge ficke Rome Of noyfome Citizens, whereof thou art one. Be gone, or else let mee. Tis bane to draw (Cains: The same ayre with thee. CE T. Strike him. LEN. Hold good CET, Fearst thou not, Cato? CATO. Rash Cethegus, no. Twere wrong with Rome, when Catiline and thou Do threat, if Cato feard. CATI. The fire you speake of If any flame of it approach my fortunes, Ile quench it, not with water, but with ruine. CATO. You heare this, Romanes, CATI. Beare it to the Conful. CET. I would have fent away his foule, before him. You are too heavie, Lentulus, and remisse; word sop son how It is for you we labour, and the Kingdome Promis'd you by the Sibyll's. CATI. Which his Prætorship. And some small flattery of the Senate more, Will make him to forget. LEN. You wrong me, Lucius. LON. He wil not need these spurres. CET. The action needs 'hem. "These things, when they proceed nor, they goe backward. LEN. Let vs consult then. CET, Let vs, first, take armes. They that denie vs inft things, now, will give the from the only

All

CATALINE.

All that we aske; if once they see our swords.

CAT. Our objects must be sought with wounds, not words.

CICERO, FULVIA.

S there a Heauen? and Gods? and can it be They should so slowly heare, so slowly see? Hath Tone no thunder? or is Tone become Stupide as thou art? ô neare-wretched Rome, When both thy Senate, and thy Gods doe fleepe, And neither thine, nor their owne States doe keepe! What will awake thee, Heaven? what can excite Thine anger, if this practife be too light? His former drifts partake of former times, But this last plot was only Catilines. O, that it were his last. But he, before Hath fafely done so much, hee'll fill dare more. Ambition, like a torrent, nere lookes backe; And is a swelling, and the last affection A high minde can put off: being both a Rebell Vnto the foule, and reason, and enforceth All lawes, all conscience, treades upon religion, And offereth violence to Natures felfe. But here, is that transcends it. A blacke purpose To confound Nature: and to ruine that, Which neuer Age, nor Mankinde dan repaire. Sit downe, good Lady; Cicero is loft In this your fable: for, to thinke it true Tempteth my reason. It so farre exceedes All infolent fictions of the tragicke Scene. The Commonwealth, yet panting, underneath The stripes, and wounds of a late civill warre, Gasping for life, and scarce restor d to hope 3. To seeke t'oppresse her, with new cruelty, And vtterly extinguish her long name, With so prodigious, and vnheard-of fiercenesse!

What

CATFLINE.

What finke of Monsters, wretches of lost minds, Mad after change, and desp'rate in their states, Wearied, and gall'd with their necessities, (For all this I allow them) durft have thought it? Would not the barbarous deeds have beene beleeu'd, Of Marius, and Sylla, by our Children, Without, this fact had rife forth greater, for them? All, that they did, was piety, to this. They, yet, but murdred Kinsfolke, Brothers, Parents, Rauish'd the Virgins , and, perhaps, some Matrons; They left the Citty standing, and the Temples: The Gods, and Maiesty of Rome were safe yet. These purpose to fire it, to dispoile them, (Beyond the other euils,) and lay wast The farre-triumphed world : For, vnto whom Rome is too little, what can be inough? F v L. Tis true, my Lord, I had the same discourse. CIC. And, then, to take a horride Sacrament .In humane blood, for execution Of this their dire designe; which might be call'd The height of wickednesse: but that, that was higher, For which they did it. Fv L. I affure your Lordship, The extreme horror of it almost turn'd me To aire, when first I heard it; I was all A vapor, when't was told me; And I long'd To vent it any where; 'T was such a secret, I thought, it would have burnt me vp. CI c. Good Fuluia, Feare not your act; and lesse repent you of it. Fv L. I doe not, my good Lord. I know to whom I haue vtter'dit. CIC. You haue discharg'd it, safely. Should Rome, for whom you have done the happy service, Turne most ingrate; yet were your vertue paid In conscience of the fact : so much good deedes Reward themselues. Fv L. My Lord, I did it not To any other ayme, but for it selfe. To no ambition. Crc. You have learn'd the difference

Of doing office to the publike weale,
And private friendship, and have shewne it, Lady.
Be still your selfe. I have sent for Quintus Curius,
And (for your vertuous sake) if I can winne him,
Yet, to the common wealth; He shall be safe too.
Fv L lle vndertake, my Lord, he will be wonne.
CIC. Pray you, ioyne with me, then: And helpe to worke him.

CICERO, LICTOR, FULVIA,

(prefently, I Ow now? Is he come? Lic. He is here, my Lord. Cic. Goo Pray my Colleague Antonius, I may speake with him, About some present businesse of the State; And (as you goe) call on my brother Quintus, And pray him, with the Tribunes to come to me. Bid Curius enter. Fulnia, you will aide me? F v L. It is my duty. CIC. O, my noble Lord! I haue to chide you, yfaith. Giue me your hand. Nay, be not troubled; 't shall be gently, Curius. You looke vpon this Lady? What? Doe you gheffe My businesse, yet? Come, If you frowne, I thunder: Therefore, put on your better lookes, and thoughts. There's nought but faire, and good intended to you; And I would make those your complexion. Would you, of whom the Senate had that hope, As, on my knowledge, it was in their purpole, Next fitting, to restore you : as they ha' done The stupide, and vngratefull Lentulus; (Excuse me, that I name you thus, together, For, yet, you are not such) would you, I say, A person both of Blood and Honor, flock's In a long race of vertuous Ancestors, Embarke your selfe for such a hellish action, With Parricides, and Traitors, men turn'd Furies, Out of the wast, and ruine of their fortunes :

CATFLINE.

(For 'tis despaire, that is the mother of madnesse) Such as want (that, which all Conspirators, But they, have first) meere colour for their mischiefe? O, I must blush with you. Come, you shall not labour To extenuate your guilt, but quit it cleanes "Bad men excuse their faults, good men will leave hem, "He acts the third crime, that defends the first. Here is a Lady, that hath got the flart, In piety, of vs all; and, for whose vertue, I could almost turne Louer, againe : but that Terentia would be icalous. What an honor Hath thee atchieued to her felfe! What voices. Titles, and loud applauses will pursue her, Through eucry freet! What windores will be fill'd, To shoote eyes at her! What enuy, and griefe in Matrons, They are not shee! when this her act shall seeme VV orthier a Chariot, then if Pompey came, VVith Afia chain'd! All this is while shee lives. But dead, her very name will be a Statue, Not wrought for time, but rooted in the minds Of all posterity; when Brasse, and Marble, I, and the Capital it felfe is dust. Fv L. Your Honor thinks too highly of me. CIC. No: I cannot thinke inough. And I would have Him emulate you. Tis no shame, to follow The better precedent. Shee shewes you, Curius, VV hat claime your Countrey laies to you; and what duty You owe to it : Be not afraid, to breake VVith Murderers, and Traytors, for the fauing A life, so neare, and necessary to you, As is your Countries. Thinke but on her right. "No Child can be too naturall to his Parent. Shee is our common Mother, and doth challenge The prime part of vs; Doe not ftop, but give it "He, that is void of feare, may soone be just, "And no Religion binds men to be Traitors.

Fv L. My Lord, he vnderstands it; and will follow Your fauing counsell. But his shame, yet, stayes him. I know, that he is comming. Cv R. Doe you know it? Fv L. Yes, let me speake with you. CvR. O you are-. Fv L. What am CVR. Speake not so loud. Fv L. I am, what you should be, Come, doe you thinke, I'ld walke in any plot, Where Madame Sempronia should take place of me, And Fuluia come i' the rere, or on the by? That I would be her second, in a businesse, Though it might vantage me all the Sunne fees? It was a feely phant fie of yours. Apply Your selfe to me, and the Conful, and be wife; Follow the fortune I ha' put you into: You may be some thing this way, and with safety. CIC. Nay, I must tolerate no whisperings, Lady. F v L. Sir, you may heare. I tell him, in the way, Wherein he was, how hazardous his course was. CIC. How hazardous? how certaine to all ruine. Did he, or doe, yet, any of them imagine The Gods would fleepe, to fuch a Stygian practife, Against that Commonwealth, which they have founded With so much labour, and like care have kept, Now neare seuen hundred yeares? It is a madnesse, Wherewith Heauen blinds'hem, when it would confound hem, That they should thinke it. Come, my Curius, I fee your nature's right; you shall no more Be mention'd with them : I will call you mine, And trouble this good fhame, no farder. Stand Firme for your Countrey; and become a man Honor'd, and lou'd. It were a noble life, To be found dead, embracing her. Know you, What thanks, what titles, what rewards the Senate Will heape vpon you, certaine, for your feruice? Let not a desperate action more engage you, Then safety should; and wicked friendship force VVhat honefly, and vertue cannot worke.

F v L. He tels you right, sweete friend: 'Tis sauing counsaile. Cv R. Most noble Conful, I am yours, and hers; I meane my Countries: you' have form'd me new. Inspiring me, with what I should be, truely. And I intreate, my faith may not seeme cheaper For springing out of penitence. C1 c. Good Curius, It shall be dearer rather, and because Il'd make it such, heare how I trust you more. Keepe still your former face; and mixe againe With these lost spirits. Runne all their mazes with hem; For fuch are treasons. Finde their windings out, And fubtle turnings, watch their fnaky waies, Through brakes, and hedges, into woods of darkeneffe, VVhere they are faine to creepe vpon their breasts In pathes nere trod by Men, but Wolues, and Panthers. Learne, befide Catiline, Lentulus, and those, VVhose names I haue, what new ones they draw in ; VVho else are likely; what those Great ones are, They doe not name; what waies they meane to take; And whither their hopes point; to warre : or ruine, By some surprize. Explore all their intents, And what you finde may profit the Republique, Acquaint me with it, either, by your selfe, Or this your vertuous friend, on whom I lay The care of vrging you; Ile see, that Rome Shall proue a thankefull, and a bounteous Mother: Be secretas the night. CvR. And constant Sir. CI c. I doe not doubt it. Though the time cut off All vowes. "The dignity of truth is loft, VVith much protesting: Who is there! This way, Least you be seene, and met. And when you come, Be this your token; to this fellow. Light 'hem. O Rome, in what a ficknesse art thou fall'n! How dangerous, and deadly ! when thy head Is drown'd in fleepe, and all thy body feu'ry! No noise, no pulling, no vexation wakes thee,

CATFLINE.

Thy Lethargie is such : or if, by chance, Thou heau'lt thy eye-lids vp, thou doftforget Sooner, then thou wert told, thy proper danger. I did vareuerendly, to blame the Gods, Illiania VVho wake for thee, though thou snore to thy selfe. Is it not ftrange, thou should ft be so diseas'd, And so secure? But more, that the first symptomes Of fuch a malady, should not rife out From any worthy member, but a base had a will And common strumpet, worthlesse to be nam'd A haire, or part of thee? Thinke, thinke, hereafter, What thy needes were, when thou must vie such meanes: And lay it to thy breast, how much the Gods Vpbraid thy foule neglect of them; by making So vile a thing, the Author of thy fafety. They could have wrought by nobler waies: have ftrooke Thy foes with forked lightning; or ramm'd thunder; Throwne hilles vpon hem, in the act; have fent Death, like a dampe, to all their families; Or caus'd their consciences to burst'hem. But, VVhen they will shew thee what thou art, and make A scornefull difference twixt their power, and thee, They helpe thee by such aides, as Geese, and Harlots. How now? What answere? Is he come? LIC. Your Brother, Will streight be here; and your Colleague Antonius Said, coldly, he would follow me. Cic. I, that Troubles me somewhat, and is worth my feare; He is a man, 'gainst whom I must prouide, That (as hee'll doe no good) he doe no harme; He, though he be not of the plot, will like it, And wish it should proceede; for, vnto men, Prest with their wants, all change is euer welcome. I must with offices, and patience winne him; Make him, by art, that which he is not borne, A friend vnto the publique; and bestow The Province on him; which is by the Senate Decree'd

Decreed to me: That benefit will bind him.

Tis well, if some men will doe well, sor price;

'So sew are vertuous, when the reward's away:

Nor must I be varied all of my private;

For which I have call'd my Brother, and the Tribunes;

My Kins-folke, and my Clients to be neare me;

"He that stands vp 'gainst Traitors, and their ends,

"Shall neede a double guard; of law, and friends:

"Especially, in such an envious State,

"That sooner will accuse the Magistrate,

"Then the Delinquent; and will rather gricue.

"The Treason is not acted, then beleeve.

CAESAR, CATILINE.

He night growes on; and you are for your meeting: Ile therefore end in few. Be resolute, And put your enterprise in act: The more Actions of depth, and danger are confiderid, The leffe affuredly they are perform'd. And thence it hapneth, that the braueff plots (Not executed fireight) have beene discouer'd ... Say, you are constant, or another, a third, Or more; there may be yet one wretched spirit, With whom the feare of punishment shall worke: Boue all the thoughts of honor, and reuenge. You are not, now, to thinke what's best to doe, As in beginnings; but, what must be done, Being thus entred and flip no aduantage That may secure you. Let hem call it mischiefe; When it is past, and prosper'd, 't will be vertue. "Th'are petty crimes are punished, great rewarded. Nor must you thinke of perill; fince, "Attempts, ... Attempts, "Begunne with danger, still doe end with glory: " And, when neede spurres, despaire will be call'd wisdome. Leffe ought the care of men, or fame to fright you;

CATILINE:

"For they, that winne, do feldome receive thame "Of victory: how ere it be atchiud; And vengeance, leaft. For who, befieg'd with wants, Would stop at death, or any thing beyond it? Come, there was neuer any great thing thing, yet, Aspired, but by violence, or fraud And he that stickes (for folly of a conscience) To reach it ___. CAT. Is a good religious foole. C'AE s. A superstitious flaue, and will die beaft. Good night. You know what Craffin thinks, and I, By this: Prepare you wings, as large as fayles, To cut through ayre, and leave no print behind you. A Serpent, ere he comes to be a Dragon, Do's cate a Bat: and fo must you a Conful, That watches, What you doe, doe quickly Sergins; You Stall not ftir for mee. CAT. Excuse me, lights there! (Cafar. CAE s. By nomeanes. CAT. Stay then. All good thoughts to And like to Crassus. C AE s. Mind but your friends counsels.

CATILINE, AVRELIA, LECCA.

R, I will beare no mind, How now, Airelia? Are your confederates come? the Ladies? Av R. Yes. CAT. And is Sempronia there? AVR. She is. CAT. That's well. She ha's a fulphurous spirit, and will take who be and obline and Light at a sparke. Breake with them, gentle loue, About the drawing as many of their Husbands Into the plot, as can: If not, to rid hem: That 'll be the easier practise, vnto some, Who have bene tir'd with 'hem long. Sollicite The sand I Their aydes, for money; and their Servants helpe, In firing of the Citie, at the time and and and and and and Shall be defign'd. Promise 'hem States, and Empires, And men, for Louers, made of better clay, Then ever the old Potter Titan knew! Who's that? O, Poreius Leeca! are they met? G 2, LIC.

LEC. They are all, here. CAT. Loue, you have your instructions:
Ile trust you with the stuffe you have to worke on.
You'll forme it? Porcius, setch the silver Eagle
I ga' you in charge. And pray hem, they will enter.

CATILINE, CETHEGUS, CURIUS, LENTV.
LUS, VARGUNTEIUS, LONGINUS,
GABINIUS, CEPARIUS,
AUTRONIUS. &c.

Friends, your faces glad mee. This will be Our last, I hope, of consultation. CAT. So, it had need. CVR. We loofe occasion, daily. CAT. I, and our meanes: whereof one woundes me most, That was the fairest. Pifo is dead, in Spaine. CET. As we are, here. LON. And, as it is thought, by enuy Of Pompey's followers. LEN. He too's comming backe, Now, out of Afra. CAT. Therefore, what we intend We must be swift in. Take your seates, and heare. I haue, alreadic, fent Septimius Into the Picene territorie; and Inline. To rayle force, for vs, in Apulia: Manlins at Fesule is (by this time) vp, With the old needic troopes, that follow'd Sylla; And all do but expect, when we will give The blow at home. Behold this filuer Eagle, Was Marius standard, in the Cimbrian warre, Fatall to Rome; and, as our Augures tell mee, Shall still be so : For which one omenous cause, I have kept it safe, and done it sacred rites, As to a Godhead; in a Chappell built Of purpose to it. Pledge then all your hands, To follow it, with vowes of death, and ruine, Strooke filently, and home. So waters speake When they runne deepest. Now's the time, this yeare, The twenti'th, from the firing of the Capitol, 19 051 17 200 W

As fatall too, to Rome, by all predictions; And, in which, honor'd Lentulus must rife A King, if he pursue it. C v R. If he doe not, He is not worthy the great defliny. LEN. It is too great for mee, but what the Gods, And their great loues decree me, I must not Seeme carelesse of. CAT. No nor we enuious. We have enough beside, all Gallia, Belgia, Greece Spayne, and Africke. Cv R. I, and Afratoo, Now Pompey is returning. CAT. Noblest Romanes, Me thinkes our lookes, are not so quicke and high, As they were wont. Cv R. No? whose is not? CAT. We have No anger in our eyes, no storme, no lightning: Our hate is spent, and fum'd away in vapor, Before our hands be at worke. I can accuse Not any one, but all of flacknefle, CET. Yes, And be your felfe fuch, while you do it. CAT. Ha? Tis sharply answerd, Caims, CET. Truly, truly. LEN. Come, let vs each one know his part to doe. And then be accufed. Leave these votimely quarrels. CvR. I would there were more Romes then one, to ruine. CET. More Romes? More Worlds. CVR. Nay then more Gods, & If they tooke part. LEN. When shall the time be, first? (Natures, CAT. I thinke the Saturnals. CET. 'Twill be too long. CAT. They are not now farre off, 'tis not a month. CET. A weeke, a day, an houre is too farre off. Now, were the fittest time. CAT. We ha' not laid All things fo fafe, and readie. CET. While we'are laying, We shall all lie; and grow to earth, Would I VVere nothing in it, if not now. These things They should be done, e're thought, CAT. Nay, now your res fon Forfakes you, Cains. Thinke, but what commodity That time will minister; the Cities custome Of being, then, in mirth, and feast. LEN. Loos'd whole In pleasure and securitie. Av L. Each house Resolu'd in freedome. Cv R. Euery flaue a master.

LON. And they too no meane aides. CvR. Made from their hope Of liberty. LEN. Or have vnto their Lords. VAR. Tis furc, there cannot be a time found out More apt, and naturall. LEN. Nay, good Cethegus, Why do your passions, now, disturbe our hopes? CET. Why do your hopes delude your certainties? CAT. You must lend him his way. Thinke, for the order, And processe of it. LON. Yes. LEN. Ilike not fire: 'I will too much wast my Citie. CAT. Were it embers. There will be wealth enough, rak't out of them, To spring a new: It mult be fire, or nothing. L.o N. What else should fright, or terrefie hem? VAR. True. In that confusion, must be the chiefe slaughter. CVR. Then we shall kill 'hem brauest. CEP. And in heapes. AVT. Strew Sacrifices. CVR. Make the Earth an Altar. LON, And Rome the fire. LE C. Twill be a noble night. VAR. And worth all Sylla's daies. Cv.R. When Husbands, Wives, Grandsires, and Nephewes, Seruants, and their Lords. Virgins, and Prieffs, the Infant, and the Nurse Go all to hell, together, in a fleete. CA T. I would have you, Longinus, and Statilius, To take the charge o' the firing, which must be, At a figne given with a trumpet, done In twelve chiefe places of the Citie, at once. The flaxe, and fulphure, are alreadie laid In, at Cethegus house. So are the weapons. Gabinius, you, with other force, shall stop The pipes, and conduits: And kill those that come For water. Cv R. What shall I do? CAT. All will have Employment, feare not: Ply the execution. CVR. For that, trust me, and Cethegus. CAT. I will be At hand, with the army, to meete those that scape. And Lentulus, begirt you Pompey's house, To seise his sonnes aliue: for they are they Must make our peace with him. All else cut off, As Targum did the Poppey heads; or mowers

CATALINE.

A field of thiftles; or elfe, vp, as ploughes Do barren lands; and firike together flints, And clods; th'ungratefull Senate, and the People : Till no rage, gone before, or comming after May weigh with yours, though Horror leapt her felfe Into the scale: but, in your violent acts, The fall of torrents, and the noyle of tempeffs, The boyling of Charybdis, the Seas wildnesse, The eating force of flames, and wings of winds, Be all outwrought, by your transcendent furies. It had bene done, ere this, had I bene Conful; or more store We'had had no flop, no let, LEN How find you Antonius? CAT. The other ha's wonne him loft, that Cicero Was borne to be my opposition, which has the war to be And stands in all our waies. Cy R. Remoue him first. CET. May that, yet, be done fooner? CAT. Would it were done. CVR. VAR. I'll doe't. CET. It is my prouince; none viurpe it. LEN. What are your meanes ! CET. Enquire not. He shall die. Shall, was too flowly faid. He'is dying. That Is, yet, too flow. He is dead. C'A T. Braue, only Romane, Whose soule might be the worlds soule, were that dying; Refuse not, yet, the aydes of these your friends. LEN. Here's Vargunteius holds good quarter with him.

CAT. And ynder the pretext of clientele And visitation, with the morning Hayle, Will be admitted. GET. What is that to mee? VAR: Yes, we may kill him in his bed, and fafely. CET. Safe is your way, then; take it. Mine's mine owne. CAT. Follow him, Vargunteins, and perswade, The morning is the fittell time. Low. The night Will turne all into tumult. LEN. And perhaps with the Misse of him too. CAT. Intreat, and conjure him. In all our names. LEN. By all our vowes, and friendships, indal

In come additional and the transfer and all do my his Dio I to Manay . H Thenog and SEMA

SEMPRONIA, AVRELIA, FYLVIA, tothem.

TATHat! is our Councell broke vp first? A v R. You say, VVomen are greatest talkers. SEM. VVe ha'done; And are now fit for action. Lo N. VVhich is passion. There's your best activity, Lady. SEM. How Knowes your wife farnesse that? Lo N. Your Mothers daughter Did teach me, Madame. CET. Come Sempronia, leaue him: He is a Giber. And our present businesse Is of more ferious consequence. Aurelia Tells me, you have done most masculinely within, Andplaid the Orator. S'E M. But we must hasten To our defigne as well, and execute: Not hang fill, in the feuer of an accident. CAT. You fay well, Lady. SRM. I do like our plot Exceeding well, tis fure; and we shall leave Little to fortune, in it. CAT. Your banquet flayes. Aurelia take her in. WVhere's Fulma? SEM. Othe two Louers are coupling. Cy R. In good faith, She's very ill, with fitting vp. SEM. Youl'd have her Laugh, and lie downe. Fr L. No, faith, Sempronia, I am not well; I'le take my leaue, it drawes Toward the morning. Curius shall stay with you. Madam, I pray you pardon me, my health I must respect A v R. Farewell, good Fulnia. CVR. Make haft, and bid him get his guards about him. For Vargunteius, and Cornelius, Haue vndertane it, should Gethegus misse: Their reason, that they thinke his open rashnesse Then their attempt; fo vailed under friendship. ... mill Ile bring you to your Coach. Tell him, beside, Of Cefars comming forth, here. CAT. My sweete Madam, Willyou be gone? Ful. Iam, my Lord, in truth, In some indisposition. CAT. I do wish

You had all your health, fweet Lady. Lentulus, You'll doe her service. LEN. To her coach, and duty.

CATILINE, OLDERA SOLA

philipping for the Lacy points

W Hat ministers men must, for practise, vie! The rash, th'ambitious, needy, desperate, Foolish, and wretched, eu'n the dregs of Mankinde, To whores, and women ! Still, it must be so. Each haue their proper place; and, in their roomes, They are the best. Groomes fittest kindle fires, Slaves carry burdens, Butchers are for flaughters, Apothecaries, Butlers, Cookes for poylons; As these for me: Dull, Aupide Lentulus, June 2011 My fale, with whom I flaike; the rath Cethegue, you light My executioner; and fat Longinses 1 1 31 11 110 1 21 1 Statilius, Curius, Ceparius, Cimber. My laborers, pioners, and incendiaries; With these domesticke traitors, bosome theeues, Whom custome hath call'd Wives; the readiest helpes, To strangle head-strong Husbands; robthe easie; And lend the moneyes, on returnes of luft. Shall Catiline not doe, now, with these aides, So fought, fo forted, fomething shall be call'd Their labor, but his profit? and make Cafar Repent his ventring counsels, to a spirit, So much his Lord in mischiefe? when all these, Shall, like the Brethren sprung of Dragons teeth, Ruine each other; and he fall amongs 'hem: With Crassus, Pompey, or who else appeares, dodd I But like, or neare a great one. May my braine Resolue to water, and my bloud turne phlegme, My hands, drop off, vnworthy of my fword, And that b'inspired, of it selfe, to rip My breaft, for my lost entrailes; when I leave A fonle, that will not ferue. And who will, are

CATALINE:

The fame with slaues; such clay I dare not feare.

The cruelty, I meane to act, I wish

Should be call'd mine, and tary in my name;

Whil'stafter Ages do toyle out themselves

In thinking for the like, but do it lesse:

And, were the power of all the fiends let loose,

With Fate to boote, it should be, still, example.

When, what the Gaule, or Moore could not effect,

Nor amulous Cartbage, with their length of spight,

Shall be the worke of one, and that my night.

CICERO, FULVIA, QUINTUS.

I Thanke your vigilance. Where's my brother, Quintuit Call all my feruants vp. Tell noble Carine, od of the M And fay it to your felfe, you are my Sauces ; the remoining and M. But that's too little for you, you are Rome's: VV hat could I then, hope leffe? O brother! now, The engines I told you of, are working; The machine 'gin's to moue. Where are your weapons? Arme all my houshold presently. And charge The Porter, he let no man in, till day, o , a room son (names, Qv I. Not Clients, and your friends? CI c. They weare those That come to murther me. Yet fend for Cato, 110 0 31 100 02 And Quint us Catulus; those I dare truff; ig ald and and right And Flaccus, and Pomtinius the Prators, Philipped Prators By the backe way. Qv r. Take care, good brother Marcus, Your feares be not form'd greater, then they should; And make your friends grieue, while your enemies laugh. CIC. Tis brothers counfell, and worth thankes. But doe VV As I intreat you. I prouide, not feares searce a secon to epili and VVas Cefarthere, fay you? Fval Curius fayes, he met him, Comming from thence, CI c. O, fo. And, had you a counsell Of Ladies too? VVho was your Speaker, Madam? Fv L. She that would be, had there bene fortie more; Semprenia, who had both her Greeke, and Figures; Mis buot A And,

And, euer and anone, would aske vs, if The witty Conful could have mended that? Or Orator Cicero could have faid it better? Cr c. Shee's my gentle enemy. Would Cethegus Had no more danger in him, But, my guards and way . A D Are you, great powers; and th' vnbated strengths Of a firme conscience, which shall arme each step Tane for the State; and teach me flacke no pace For feare of malice. How now, Brother? Qvr. Cato, And Questus Catulus were comming to you, And Craffus with hem. I have let hemin, wower strained By th' garden. Cic. What would Craffus haue? Qvi. I heare Some whispering bout the gate; and making doubt, Whither it be not yet too early, or no ? in of and in a sold in But I doe thinke, they are your friendes, and Clients, Are fearefull to disturbe you. Crc. You will change To another thought, anone. Ha' you giu'n the Porter The charge, I will'd you? QvI. Yes. Crc. Withdraw, and hearken.

VARGUNTEIVS, CORNELIVS, PORTER,
CICERO, CATOLVS,
CRASSVS.

be districted in the country and He dore's not open, yet. Con. You'were best to knocke. J. VAR. Let them fland close, then: And, when we are in, Rush after vs. Co R. But where's Cethegus? VAR. He Has left it, fince he might not do't his way. Por. Who's there? VAR. A friend, or more. Por. I may not let Any man in, till day. VAR. No? why? COR. Thyreaton? POR. Iam commanded fo. VAR. By whom? COR. Ihope We are not discouer'd. VAR. Yes, by reuelation. Pray thee good flaue, who has commanded thee? POR. He that may belt, the Confull. VAR. We are his friends. Por. All's one. Cor. Best giue your name. VAR. Dost thou heare, I have fome instant businesse with the Consult. (fellow? My name is Vargunteius. Crc. True, he knowes it; And 5131

And for what friendly office you are fent. ogood bar 1919 5-A Cornelius, too, is there? VAR. We are betraid. · CI c. And desperate Cethegus, is he not? VAR. Speake you, he knowes my voice. Crc. What fay you to't? Co R. You are deceau'd Sir. Crc. No, tis you are so; Poore, milled men. Your flates are yet worth pitty, a toward If you would heare, and change your fauage minds. Leaue to be mad; forfake your purposes Of Treason, Rapine, Murder, Fire, and Horror: The common wealth hath eyes, that wake as sharply Ouer her life, as yours doe for her ruine. Be not deceiu'd, to thinke her lenity Will be perpetuall; or, if Men be wanting, The Gods will be, to fuch a calling cause. Confider your attempts, and while there's time, Repent you of hem. It doth make me tremble There should those spirits yet breath, that when they cannot Liue honeftly, would rather perish basely. CATO. You talke to much to 'hem, Marcus, They'are loft. Goe forth, and apprehend hem. CATV. If you proue This practife; what should let the Common-wealth To take due vengeance? VAR. Let vs shift, away. The darkeneffe hath conceal'd vs, yet: Wee'll fay Some haue abus'd our names. Co R. Denie it all. CATO. Quintus, what guards ha' you? Call the Tribunes aide, And raise the City. Conful, you are too mild, "The foulenesse of some facts takes thence all mercy : Report it to the Senate. Heare: The Gods Grow angry with your patience. "Tis their care, "And must be yours, that guilty men escape not. " As crimes doe grow, Iustice should rouse it selfe.

CHORVS.

VV Har is it, Heauens, you prepare
VVith so much swiftnesse, and so sodaine rising?
There

There are no Sonnes of earth, that dare, Againe, rebellion: or the Gods surprising?
The World doth shake, and Nature searcs,

Yet is the tumult, and the horror greater.

VVithin our minds, then in our eares,

So much Remes faults (now growne her Fate) doe threat her.

The Priests, and People runne about,

Each Order, Age, and Sexe amaz'd at other;

And, at the ports, all thronging out,

As if their fafety were to quit their Mother:

Yet finde they the same dangers there,

From which they make fuch haft to be preferred;

For guilty States doe euer beare

The plagues about them, which they have deserved.

And till these plagues doe get about is the same and the

The mountaine of our faults, and there doe fit;

VVe fee hemmot, Thus, fill we loue! The rate will a

The ewill we doe, vntill we fuffer it.

But, most, ambition, that neare vice

To vertue, hath the fate of Rome prouoked;

And made, that now Reme of elfe no price,

To free her from the death, wherewith the's yoked. in do o

That reftleffe Ill, that fill doth build a bornow when a

V pon successe; and endes not in aspiring:

But there beginnes. And nere is fill'd,

While ought remaines that feemes but worth defiring.

VVherein the Thought, vnlike the Eyes us soon! "de M

To which thingsfarre, seeme smaller then they are,

Deemes all contentment plac'd on high:

And thinks there's nothing great, but what is farre.

such their what powers are about them.

O, that in time, Rome did not call the

Her errors vp, this fortune to preuent;

T'haue seene her crimes'ere they were paft:

And felt her faults, before her punishment.

Act,

CATFLINE

Act. iii.

our migds, then in our

ALLOBROGES.

An these men seare? who are not only ours, But the worlds masters? Then I see, the Gods Vpbraid our suffrings, or would humble them; By sending these affrights, while we are here: That we might laugh at their ridiculous feare, Whose names, we trembled at, beyond the Alpes. Of all that passe, I doe not see a face pugal of allin bala Worthy a man, that dares looke vp, and fland manual T One thunder out; but downeward all, like beafts; all VV Running away from every flath is made. W. 300 3W 1 100 21 The falling world could not deferue fuch basenesse. Like superstitious fooles (or rather flaves) 1811, 201 at Dt A To plaine our griefes, wrongs, and oppressions, To a meere clothed Senate, whom our folly Hath made, and still intends to keepe our Tyrannes? It is our base petitionary breath Down appropriate That blowes hem to this greatnesse; which this pricke Would soone let out, if we were bold, and wretched. When they have taken all we have; our goods, id and wolf Crop, lands, and houses, they will leave vs this: A weapon, and an arme will fill be found, e and a land a brake Though naked left, and lower then the ground, ai led 1.0 Her errors vp, this forcupe to predent

CATO, CATVLVS, CICERO.

De; vrge thine anger, still; good Heauen, and iust.
Tell guilty men, what powers are about them.

In fuch a confidence of wickednesse, Twas time, they should know something fit to feare. CATV. I neuer faw a morne more full of horror. CATO. To Catiline, and his : But, to iust men, Though Heaven should speake, with all his wrath at once, That, with his breath, the hinges of the world Did cracke; we should stand vpright, and vnfear'd. CIC. Why, so we doe, good Cato. Who be these? CATV. Ambassadours, from the Allobroges, I take hem, by their habits. ALL I, thefe men Seeme of another race; Let's fue to these There's hope of juffice, with their fortitude. CI C. Friends of the Senate, and of Rome, to day VVe pray you to forbeare vs: on the morrow VVhat fute you have, let vs, by Fabius Sanga, (VVhose Patronage your State doth vse) but know it. And, on the Consull's word, you shall receive Dispatch, or else an answere, worth your patience. A L L. VVe could not hope for more, most worthy Conful. This Magistrate hath strooke an awe into me, And, by his fweetnesse, wonne a more reguard Vnto his place, then all the boiftrons moodes That ignorant Greatnesse pracliseth, to fill The large, vufit authority it weares, How case is a noble spirit discern'd From harsh, and sulphurous matter, that flies out In contumelies, makes a noile, and Rinkes. May we finde good, and great men, that know how To floupe to wants, and meete necessities. And will not turne from any equall fuites. " Such men, they doe not fuccour more the cause, "They vndertake, with fauor, and fuccesse; "Then, by it, their owne indements they doe raife, "In turning just mens needes, into their praise.

got preres a cue bis gon

THE SENATE.

DR AE. Roome for the Consuls. Fathers, take your places. Here, in the house of Inpiter, the STAYER, By edict from the Confull, Marcus Tullius, You'are met, a frequent Senate. Heare him speake. CIC. Which may be happy, and auspicious still To Rome, and bers. Honor'd and Conscript Fathers, If I were filent, and that all the dangers Threatning the State, and you, were yet so hid In night, or darkenesse, thicker in their breasts, That are the blacke contriuers; fo, that no Beame of the light could pierce hem : Yet the voice Of Heaven, this morning, hath spoke loud inough, T'inttruct you with a feeling of the horrors And wake you from a fleepe, as dead, as death. I haue, of late, spoke often in this Senate, Touching this argument, but still have wanted Bither your eares, or faith; fo incredible Their plots haue feem'd, or I so vaine, to make These things for mine owne glory, and salse greatnesse, As hath beene given out. But be it fo: When they breake forth, and shall declare themselves, By their too foule effects, then, then, the enuy Ofmy iuft cares will finde another name. For me, I am but one: And this poore life, So lately aim'd at, not an houre yet fince, They cannot with more eagernesse pursue, Then I with gladnesse would lay downe, and loose, To buy Romes peace, if that would purchase it. But when I fee, they'ld make it but the step To more, and greater; vnto yours, Romes, all: I would with those preserve it, or then fall. CAE s. I, I, let you alone, cunning Artificer! See, how his gorget peeres aboue his gowne;

CATFLINGE.

To tell the people, in what danger he was. It was abfurdly done of Vargunteins To name himfelfe, before he was got in. CRA. It matters not, so they denie it all: And can but carry the lie conftantly. Will Catiline be here? CAES. I'haue sent for him. CRA. And ha' you bid him to be confident? CAE s. To that his owne necessity will prompt him. CR A. Seeme to beleeve nothing at all, that Cicero Relates vs. CAES. It will mad him. CRA. O, and helpe The other party. Who is that ? His Brother? What new intelligence ha's he brought him now? C AE s. Some cautions from his Wife, how to behaue him. C1 c. Place some of them without, and some bring in. Thanke their kinde loues. It is a comfort yet. That all depart not from their Countries cause. C AE s. How now, what incomes this Muster? Conful, Antonius? ANT. I doe not know, aske my Colleague, hee'll tell you. There is some reason in flate, that I must yeeld to; And I have promis'd him : Indeede he has bought it, With guing me the Pronince. Cr c. I professe, It grieves me, Fathers, that I am compell'd To draw these armes, and aides for your defence; And, more, against a Citizen of Rome, Borne here among A you, a Patrician, Aman, I must confesse, of no meane house, Nor no small vertue, if he had employ'd Those excellent gifts of Fortune, and of Nature, Vinto the good, not ruine of the State. But being bred in's fathers needy fortunes, Brought vp in's fifters proffitution, 10 /6 bals Confirm'd in civill flaughter, entring first The Common-wealth, with murder of the gentry; Since, both by fludy, and cuffome, conversant With all licentiousnesse: what could be hop'd In such a field of riot, but a course

Extrema

Extreme pernicious? Though, I muft pretell, missigood and il so T I found his mischiefs, sooner, with mine eyes, and while and it Then with my thought; and with these hands of mine Before they touch'd, at my suspicion. and of don hassing I al a D CAE s. VVhat are his mischiefs, Conful? you declame de la Against his manners, and corrupt your owne; "No wife man should, for hate of guilty men, be A . A no "Loose his owne innocence. CIC. The noble Casar Speakes Godlike truth. But, when he heares, I can Conuince him, by his manners, of his mischiefs, He might be filent : And not cast away His sentences in vaine, where they scarse looke. Toward his subject. CAT. Here he comes himselfe. If he be wo thy any good mans voice, That good man fit downe, by him : Cato will not CATV. If Cato leave him. I'le not keepe afide. CATI. VV hat face is this, the Senate here puts on, . I I Against me, Fathers! Give my modesty Leaue, to demand the cause of so much strangenesse. CAE s. It is reported here, you are the head To a strange faction, Lucius. CI c. I, and will Be prou'd against him. CAT. Let it be. Why, Consul, If in the Common-wealth, there be two bodies, One leane, weake, rotten, and that hath a head; The other ftrong, and healthfull, but hath none: If I doe give it one, doe I offend? Restore your selues, vnto your temper, Fathers; And, without perturbation, heare me speake: Remember who I am, and of what place, said soil book of VVhat petty fellow this is, that opposes; One, that hath exercis'd his eloquence; had a sollit a'ni ev meund Still to the bane of the Nobility: and and the dibate of bank A boassing, insolent tongue-man. CATO. Peace leud Traitor, Or wash thy mouth. He is an honest man And loues his Countrey; would thou didit fo, too. CATI. Cato, you are too zealous for him. CATO. No. Thou

CATTLINE

Thou art too impudent. CATV. Catiline be silent. CATI. Nay then, I cally feare, my just defence VVill come too late, to fo much prejudice. CAES. Will he fit downe? CATI. Yet, let the world forfale My innocence must not. CATO. Thou innocent? So are the Faries. Crc. Yes, and Ate, too. Do'ft thou not blush, pernicious Catiline? Or, hath the palenefle of thy guilt drunke vp Thy blood, and drawne thy vaines, as drie of that, As is thy heart of truth, thy breaft of vertue? Whither at length wilt thou abuse our patience? Still shall thy fury mocke vs? To what licence Dares thy vnbridled boldnesse runne it felfe? Doe all the nightly guards, kept on the Palace, The Cities watches, with the Peoples feares, The concourse of all Good men, this so strong And fortified feate here of the Senate, The present lookes vpon thee, strike thee nothing? Do'th thou not feele thy Councels all laid open & And see thy wild Conspiracy bound in VVith each mans knowledge? which of all this Order Canst thou thinke ignorant (if they'll but viter Their conscience to the right of what thou didst Last night, what on the former, where thou wert, Whom thou didst call together, what your plots were? O Age, and Manners! This the Conful fees, The Senate vnderstands, yet this man lives? Liues ? I, and comes here into Councell with vs: Partakes the publique cares : and with his eye Markes, and points out each man of vs to flaughter. And we, good men, doe fatisfie the State, If we can shunne but this mans sword, and madnesse. There was that vertue, once, in Rome, when good men: Would, with more sharpe coercion, have restrain'd A wicked Citizen, then the deadlieft Foe. We have that law still, Eatiline, for thee;

Au.

An ast as graue, as fairpe : The State's not wanting. Nor the authority of this Senate; wee, Wee, that are Consuls, onely fayle our selues. This twentie daies, the edge of that decree We have let doll, and ruft kept it fhut vp. As in a sheath, which drawne should take thy head. Yet still thou liu'st: and liu'st not to lay by Thy wicked confidence, but to confirme it. I could desire, Fathers, to be found Still mercifull, to seeme in these maine perils, Grasping the state, a man remisse, and stacke; But then, I should condemne my selfe of sloth, And trechery. Their Campe's in Italy, Pitch'd in the lawes, here, of Hetruria; Their numbers daily increasing, and their Generall Within our walles : nay in our Councell, plotting Howerly some fatall mischiefe to the Publique. If, Catiline, I should commaund thee, now, Here, to be taken, kill'd; I make just doubt, Whether all good men would not thinke it done Rather too late, then any man too cruell. CATO. Except he were of the same meale, and batch. Crc. But that, which ought to have bene done long fince, I will, and (for good reason) yet forbeare. Then will I take thee, when no man is found So loft, so wicked, nay so like thy felfe. But shall professe, 'tis done of neede, and right. While there is one, that dares defend thee, liue; Thou shalt have leave; but so, as now thou liu's: Watch'd at a hand, befieged, and opprest From working least commotion to the State. I have those eyes, and eares, shall still keepe guard, And spiall on thee, as they have ever done, And thou not feele it. What, then, canst thou hope? If neither Night can, with her darknesse, hide Thy wicked meetings; nor a private House

Can, in her walles, containe the guiltie whispers Of thy conspiracy: If all breake out, All be discouered, change thy minde at last, And loofe thy thoughts of ruine, flame, and flaughter. Remember, how I told, here, to the Senate, That such a day, thy Lictor, Cains Manlins, Would be in armes. Was I deceived, Catiline, Or in the fact, or in the time? the hower? I told too, in this Senate, that thy purpose Was, on the fifth, the Kalends of Nonember, T' haue slaughterd this whole Order: which my caution Made many leave the Citie. Canft thou here Denie, but this thy blacke defigne was hindred, That very day, by mee, thy felfe clos'd in Within my firengths, fo that thou could'ft not mou Against a publique reed? when thou wert heard To fay, vpon the parting of the reft, Thou would'it content thee, with the murder of vs. That did remaine. Had it thou not hope, beside, By a surprize, by night, to take Praneste? Where when thou cam'ft, did'ft thou not finde the place Made good against thee, with my aides, my watches? My Garrisons fortified it. Thou dost nothing, Sergim, Thou canst endeuour nothing, nay not thinke, But I both see, and heare it; and am with thee, By, and before, about, and in thee, too. Call but to minde thy last nights businesse. Come, Ile vieno circumstance: at Lecea's house, The shop, and mint of your conspiracie, Among your Sword-men, where so many affociates Both of thy mischiefe, and thy madnesse, met. Dar'Athou denie this? wherefore art thou filent? Speake, and this shall convince thee : Here they are, Hee hem, in this Senate, that were with thee. O you immortall Gods fin what clime are wee? What region do we live in? in what ayre?

CATALINE.

VVhat Common-wealth, or State is this we have? Here, here, amongst vs, our owne number, Fathers, In this most holy Councell of the world, They are, that feeke the spoyle of me, of you, Of ours, of all; what I can name's too narrow: Follow the Sunne, and find not their ambition. Thefe I behold, being Confull; Nay, I aske Their counsels of the State, as from good Patriots: Whom it were fit the axe should hew in pieces, I not fo much as wound, yet, with my voyce. Thou wast, last night, with Lecca, Catiline, Your shares, of Italy, you there divided; Appointed who, and whither, each should goes What men should stay behind, in Rome, were chosen; Your offices let downe; the parts mark'd out, And places of the Citie, for the fire; Thy felfe (thou'affirmd'ft) wast readie to depart. Onely, a little let there was, that flay'd thee, That I yet liu'd: Vpon the word, stept forth Three of thy crew, to rid thee of that care; Two vndertooke this morning, before day, To kill me in my bed. All this I knew, Your convent scarce dismis'd, arm'd all my servants, Call'd both my brother, and friends, shut out your clients, You sent to visite mee; whose names I told To some there, of good place, before they came. CATO. Yes, I, and Quintus Catulus can affirme it. CAE s. Hee's loft, and gone. His spirits have for sooke him. Ct c. If this be so, why, Catiline, dost thou stay? Goe, where thou meanst: The Ports are open; forth. The Campe abroad wants thee, their Chiefe, too long. Lead with thee all thy troupes out. Purge the Citie. Draw drie that noylome, and pernicious finke, Which left, behind thee, would infect the world, Thou wilt free me of all my feares, at once, To see a wall betweene vs. Dost thou stop

To do that now, commanded; which before, Of thine owne choise, thou'rt prone to? Goe. The Consul Bids thee, an enemy, to depart the Citie. Whither, thou'lt aske? to exile? Inot bid Thee that. But aske my counsell, I perswade it. VVhat is there, here, in Rome, that can delight thec? Where not a foule, without thine owne foule knot, But feares, and hates thee. What domesticke note Of private filthinesse, but is burnt in Into thy life? What close, and secret shame. But is growne one, with thy knowne infamy? What lust was ever absent from thine eyes? VVhat lewd fact from thy hands? what wickednesse From thy whole body? where's that youth drawne in VVithin thy nets, or catch'd vp with thy baytes, Before whose rage, thou hast not borne a sword, And to whose lust thou hast not held a torch? Thy latter Nuptials I let passe in silence; VVhere sinnes incredible, on sinnes, were heapt: Which I not name, lest, in a civill State, So monstrous facts should eyther appeare to bee, Or not to be reueng'd. Thy Fortunes, too, I glance not at, which hang but till next Ides. I come to that, which is more knowne, more publick; The life, and safety of vs all, by thee Threatned, and sought. Stood It thou not in the field, VVhen Lepidus, and Tullus were our Confuls, Vpon the day of choyle, arm'd, and with forces, To take their lives, and our chiefe Citizens; When, not thy feare, nor consciece chang'd thy mind, But the meere fortune of the Common-wealth VVithstood thy active malice? Speake but right, How often hast thou made attempt on mee? How many of thy affaults have I declin'd WVith shifting but my bodie, (as wee'ld fay) VVrefted thy dagger from thy hand, how oft?

How

CATALINE.

How often hath it falne, or flip't by chance? Yet can thy fide not want it : which, how vow'd, Or with what rites, 'tis facred of thee, I know not, That fill thou mak'ft it a necessitie. To fixe it in the bodie of a Conful. But let me loofe this way, and speake to thee, Not as one mou'd with hatred, which I ought, But pitty, of which none is owing thee. CAT. No more then vnto Tantalus, or Tityus. CI C. Thou cam'ff, ere while, into this Senate. Who Of fuch a frequency, so many friends, And kindred thou half here, faluted thee? VVere not the feates made bare, vpon thy entrance? Ris not the Consular men? and left their places, So soone as thou sat'st downer and fled thy side, Like to a plague, or ruine; knowing, how oft They had bene, by thee, mark'd out for the Shambles? How dost thou beare this? Surely, if my Slaues At home fear'd me, with halfe th'affright, and horror, That, here, thy fellow Citizens do thee, I should soone quit my house, and thinke it need too. Yet thou dar's tary heere? Go forth, at last; Condemne thy felfe to flight, and folitude. Discharge the Common-wealth, of her deepe feare. Goe; into banishment, if thou wait'st the word. Why do'ft thou looke? They all consent vnto it. Do'll thou expect th'authority of their voyces, VVhose filent willes condemne thee? While they fit, They approue it; while they fuffer it, they decree it; And while they are silent to it, they proclaime it. Proue thou there honest, Ile endure the enuie. But there's no thought, thou fhould'it be euer hee, VVhom eyther shaund should call from filthinesse, Terror from danger, or discourse from sury. Goe; I intreat thee: yet, why do I fo? VVhen I alreadie know, they are sent afore,

CAT JLINE.

That tarry for thee'in armes, and do expect thee On the Aurelian way. I know the day Set downe, twixt thee, and Manlius; vnto whom The filuer Eagle too is fent, before: VVhich I do hope shall proue, to thee as banefull, As thou conceiu flit to the Common-wealth. But, may this wife, and facred Senate fay, What mean's thou Marcus Tullus? If thou know's That Catiline be look'd for, to be Chiefe Of an intestine warre; that he'is the Author Of fuch a wickednesse; the Caller out Of men of marke in mischiefe, to an action Of so much horror; Prince of such a treason; VVhy do'ft thou fend him forth? why let him scape? This is to give him liberty, and power: . Rather, thou should'st lay hold vpon him, send him To deseru'd death, and a just punishment. To these so holy voyces, thus I answere. If I did thinke it timely, Conscript Fathers, To punish him with death, I would not give The Fencer vic of one hort hower, to breath; But when there are in this grave Order, some, VVho, with fost censures, still doe nource his hopes; Some, that with not beleeuing, have confirm'd His designes more, and whose authoritie The weaker, as the worst men, too, have followd: I would now fend him, where they all should fee Cleare, as the light, his heart shine; where no man Could be so wickedly, or fondly supide, But should cry out he saw, touch'd, felt, and grasp't it. Then, when he hath runne out himselfe; led forth His desp'rate partie with him; blowne together Aids of all kinds, both ship wracked minds & fortunes: Not onely the growne euill, that now is fprung, And sprouted forth, would be pluck'd vp, & weeded; But the stocke, roote, and seed of all the mischiefes,

CATILINE:

Choking the Common-wealth. Where, should we take Of fuch a swarme of traytors, onely him, Our cares, and feares might feeme a while reliewd, But the maine perill would bide still enclos'd, Deepe, in the veines, and bowels of the State. As humane bodies, laboring with feuers, VVhile they are tost with heate, if they do take Cold water, seeme for that short space much eas'd, But afterward, are ten times more afflicted. VVherefore, I say, let all this wicked crew. Depart, divide themselves from good men, gather Their forces to one head; as I said oft, Let 'hem be seuer'd from vs with a wall; Let'hem leaue off attempts, vpon the Conful, In his owne house; to circle in the Prætor; To girt the Court with weapons; to prepare Fire, and balles, fwords, torches, fulphure, brands: In short, let it be writin each mans forehead What thoughts he beares the Publike. I here promise, Fathers Conscript, to you, and to my selfe, That diligence in vs Confulls, for my honour'd Colleague, abroad, and for my felfe, at home; So great authority in you; fo much Vertue, in these, the Gentlemen of Rome; VVhom I could scarce restraine to day, in zeale, From feeking out the Parricide, to flaughter; So much confent in all good men, and minds, As, on the going out of this one Catiline, All shall be cleare, made plaine, oppress'd, reueng'd. And, with this omen, go, pernicious plague, Out of the Citie, to the wish'd destruction Of thee, and those, that, to the ruine of her, Haue tane that bloudy, and blacke facrament. Thou Impiter, whom we do call the STAYER Both of this Citie, and this Empire, wilt (With the same auspice thou didst raise it first)

Drive from thy Altars, and all other Temples, And Buildings of this City; from our Walles; Liues, states, and fortunes of our Citizens; This fiend, this fury, with his complices. And all the offence of good men (these knowne traitor Vnto their countrey, theeues of Italie, Ioyn'd in so damn'd a league of mischiefe) thou Wilt with perpetuall plagues, alive, and dead, Punish for Rome, and saue her innocent head. CATI. If an Oration, or high language, Fathers, Could make me guilty, here is one, hath done it: H' has froue to amulate this mornings thunder, With his prodigious rhetoricke. But I hope, This Senate is more grave, then to give credit Rashly to all he vomits, gains a man-Of your owne Order, a Patrician; And one, whose ancestors have more deseru'd Of Rome, then this mans eloquence could veter, Turn'd the best way, as still, it is the worst. CATO. His eloquence hath more deseru'd to day, Speaking thy ill, then all thy ancestors Did, in their good : And that the State will finde, Which he hath fau'd. CATT. How he? were I that enemy That he would make me: Il'd not wish the State More wretched, then to neede his preservation. What doe you make him, Cato, such a Hercules? An Atlas? A poore petty In-mate. CATO. Traitor. CATI. He saue the State? A Burgesse sonne of Arpinum. The Gods would rather twenty Romes should perish, Then have that contumely flucke vpon hem, That he should share with them, in the preserving A shed, or figne-post. CATO. Peace, thou prodigic. CATI. They would be runne themselves, againe, and lost In the first, rude, and indigested heape; Ere such a wretched name, as Cicero, Should found with theirs, CATV. Away, thou impudent head.

CATI. Doe you all backe him? are you filent too? Well, I will leave you Fathers; I will goe. But -my fine dainty speaker. - CIC. What now Fury? Wilt thou affault me here? CHO. Helpe, aide the Conful. CATI. See Fathers, laugh you not? who threatned him? In vaine thou do'ff conceiue, ambitious Orator, Hope of so braue a death, as by this hand. CATO. Out, of the Court, with the pernicious traytor. CATI. There is no title, that this flattering Senate, Nor honor, the base multitude can give thee, Shall make thee worthy Catilines anger. CATO. Stop, Stop that portentous mouth. CATI. Or, when it shall, Ile looke thee dead. CATO. Will none restraine the Monster? CATV. Parricide. QVI. Butcher, Traytor, leaue the Senate. CATI. I'am gone, to banishment, to please you Fathers. Thrust head-long forth? CATO. Stil, dost thou murmure, Monster? CATI. Since, I am thus put out, and made a .- CI C. What? CATV. Not guiltier then thou art. CATI. I will not burne Without my funerall pile. CATO. What fayes the Fiend? CATI. I will have matter, timber. CATO. Sing out Scrich-owle. CATI. It shall be in- CATV. Speake thy imperfect thoughts. CATI. The common fire, rather then mine owne. For fall I will with all, ere fall alone. CRA. His loft, there is no hope of him. CAE s. Vnleffe He presently take armes; and give a blow, Before the Confuls forces can be leuie'd. CIC. VVhat is your pleasure, Fathers, shall be done? CATV. See, that the Common-wealth receive no losse. CATO. Commit the care thereof vnto the Confuls. (Senate. CRA. Tis time. CAES. And need. CIC. Thanks to this frequent But what decree they, vnto Curins, And Fuluia? CATV. What the Conful shall thinke meete. Ct c. They must receive reward, though't be not knowne; Least when a State needes ministers, they ha' none. CATO. Yet, Marcus Tullens, doe not I beleeue, But Crassas, and this Casar here ring hollow. CIC.

CIC. And would appeare so, if that we durst proue hem.
CATO. VV hy dare we not? What honest act is that,
The Roman Senate should not dare, and doe?
CIC. Not an unprofitable, dangerous act,
To thirre too many Serpents up at once.
Casar, and Crassas, if they be ill men,
Are mighty ones; and, we must so prouide,
That, while we take one head, from this foule Hydra,
There spring not twenty more. CATO. I' proue your Counsell.
CIC. They shall be watch'd, and look'd too. Till they doe
Declare themselves, I will not put hem out
By any question. There they stand. He make
My selfe no enemies, nor the State, no traitors.

CATILINE, LENTVLVS, CETHEGUS, CV-RIVS, GABINIVS, LONGINVS, STATILIVS.

C Alse to our selves? All our designes discover'd To this State-Cat? CET. I, had I had my way, He' had mew'd in flames, at home, not i the Senate: I'had fing'd his furres, by this time. CAT. Well, there's, now, No time of calling backe, or flanding fill. Friends, be your selves; keepe the same Roman hearts, And ready minds, you' had yesternight: Prepare To execute, what we refolu'd. And let not Labor, or danger, or discourry fright you. Ile to the army : you (the while) mature Things, here, at home. Draw to you any aides, That you thinke fit, of men of all conditions, Or any fortunes, that may helpe a warre. Ile bleede a life, or winne an Empire for you. VVichin these few dayes, looke to see my enfignes, Here, at the walles: Be you but firme within. Meane time, to draw an enuy on the Confull, And give a leffe suspicion of our course,

Let it be given out, here in the Citty, That I am gone, an innocent man, to exile, Into Massilia, willing to give way To fortune, and the times; being vnable To stand so great a faction, without troubling The Common-wealth: whose peace I rather seeke, Then all the glory of contention, Or the support of mine owne innocence. Farewell the noble Lentulus, Longinus, Curius, the rest; and thou, my better Genius, The braue Cethegus : when we meete againe, Wee'll sacrifice to Liberty. CET. And Reuenge. That we may praise our hands once. LEN.O you Fates, Giue Fortune now her eyes, to fee with whom Shee goes along, that shee may nere for sake him. CVR. He needs not her, nor them. Goe but on, Sergius. "A valiant man is his owne Fate, and Fortune. LON. The Fate, and Fortune of vs all goe with him. GAB. STA. And euer guard him. CAT. I am all your Creature. LEN. Now friends, 'tis left with ys. I have already Dealt, by Vmbrenus, with the Allobroges, Here refiant in Rome; whose State, I heare, Is discontent with the great vsuries, They are oppress'd with : and have made complaints Divers, vinto the Senate, but all vaine. These men, I'haue thought, both for their owne oppressions, As also that, by nature, they are a people Warlike, and fierce, still watching after change, And now, in present hatred with our State, The fittest, and the casiest to be drawne To our society, and to aide the warre. The rather, for their feate: being next bordrers On Italie : and that they abound with horse, Of which one want our Campe doth only labor. And I have found 'hem comming. They will meete Soone at Sempronia's house, where I would pray you

All to be present, to confirme hem more.

The sight of such spirits hurt not, nor the store.

GAB. I will not saile. STA. Nor I. CVR. Nor I. CET. Would I Had somewhat by my selfe, apart, to doe.

I ha' no genius to these many counsels.

Let me kill all the Senate, for my share,

Ile do it at next sitting. LEN. Worthy Cains,

Your presence will adde much. CET. I shall marre more.

CICERO. SANGA. ALLOBROGES.

He State's beholden to you, Fabius Sanga, For this great care: And those Allobroges Are more then wretched, if they lend a liftning To fuch perswasion. SAN. They, most worthy Consul, As men employ'd here, from a grieued State, Groaning beneath a multitude of wrongs, And being told, there was small hope of ease To be expected, to their cuils, from hence, Were willing, at the first to give an eare To any thing, that founded liberty: But fince, on better thoughts, and my vrg'd reasons, They are come about, and wonne, to the true fide. The fortune of the Common-wealth hath conquer'd. CIC. What is that same V mbrenus, was the Agent? SAN. One that hath had negotiation In Gallia oft, and knowne vnto their State. CIC. Are the Ambassadours come with you? SAN. Yes. CIC. VVell, bring hem in, if they be firme, and honest, Neuer had men the meanes fo to deferue Of Rome, as they. A happy, wish'd occasion, And thrust into my hands, for the discouery, And manifest conuiction of these traytors. Be thank'd; ô Inpiter. My worthy Lords, Confederates of the Senate, you are welcome. I understand by Quintus Fabius Sanga,

Your

Your carefull Patron here, you have beene lately Sollicited against the Common-wealth, By one Vmbrenus (take a seate, I pray you) From Publius Lentulus, to be affociates In their intended warre. I could aduise, That men, whose fortunes are yet flourishing, And are Romes friends, would not, without a cause, Become her enemics; and mixe themselues And their estates, with the lost hopes of Catiline, Or Lentulus, whose meere despaire doth arme'hem: That were to hazard certainties, for ayre, And vodergoe all danger, for a voyce, Beleeue me, friends: "I oud tumu'ts are not laid "With halfe the easinesse, that they are rais'd. " All may beginne a warre, but few can end it. The Senate have decreed, that my Colleague Shall leade their army, against Catiline, And have declar'd both him, and Manlim traitors. Metellus Celer hath already giuen Part of their troopes defeate. Honors are promis'd To all, will quit hem; and rewards propos'd Euen to flaves, that can detect their courfes. Here, in the City, I have by the Prætors, And Tribunes, plac'd my guards, and watches fo. That not a foote can treade, a breath can whisper, But I have knowledge. And be fure, the Senate, And People of Rome, of their accustom'd greatnesse, Will sharply, and seuerely vindicate, Not only any fact, but any practife Or purpose, gainst the State. Therefore, my Lords, Confult of your owne waies, and thinke which hand Is best to take. You, now, are present suters For ionie redreffe of wrongs; Ile vndertake Not only that shall be affur'd you, but What grace or priniledge elfe, Senate, or People Can cast vpon you, worthy such a seruice,

As you have now the way, and meanes, to doe 'hem; If but your willes consent, with my defignes. A L L. We couet nothing more, most worthy Conful. And how so ere we have beene tempted lately, To a defection, that not makes vs guilty: We are not yet so wretched in our fortunes, Nor in our willes so lost, as to abandon A friendship, prodigally, of that price, As is the Senate, and the People of Romes, For hopes, that doe pracipitate themselues. Cr c. You then are wife, and honest. Doe but this, then: When shall you speake with Lentulus, and the rest? ALL. We are to meete anone, at Brutus house. CI c. Who? Decius Brutus? He is not in Rome. SAN. O, but his wife Sempronia. CIC. You instruct me. Shee is a Chiefe. Well, faile not you to meete hem, And to expresse the best affection You can put on, to all that they intend. Like it, applaud it, give the Common-wealth And Senate, lost to 'hem. Promise any aides By armes, or counsell. What they can defire I would have you prevent. Only, say this, You' have had dispatch, in private, by the Consull Of your affaires, and for the many feares The State's now in, you are will'd by him, this evening, To depart Rome : which you, by all fought meanes, Will doe, of reason to decline suspicion. Now, for the more authority of the bufineffe They have trusted to you, and to give it credit With your owne State, at home, you would defire Their letters to your Senate, and your People, Which shewne, you durst engage both life, and honor, The rest should every way answere their hopes. Those had, pretend sodaine departure you, And, as you give me notice, at what Port You will goe out, Ile ha' you intercepted,

And

CATILINE:

And all the letters taken with you: So

As you shall be redeen d in all opinions,
And they conuicted of their manifest treason.

"Ill deedes are well turn'd backe, vpon their Authors:
And gainst an Injurer, the reuenge is just.

This must be done, now. All. Chearfully, and firmely.

Ve' are they, would rather hast to vndertake it,
Then stay, to say so. Cic. VVith that considence, goe:
Make your selues happy, while you make Rome so.

By Sanga, let me have notice from you. All. Yes.

SEMPRONIA, LENTVLVS, CETHEGVS, GABI-NIVS, STATILIVS, LONGINVS, VOL-TURTIVS, ALLOBROGES.

Hen come these Creatures, the Ambassadors? I would faine see 'hem. Are they any Schollers? (surely. LEN. I thinke not, Madame. SEM, Ha' they no Greeke? LEN. No. SEM. Fie, what doe'l here, wayting on hem then? If they be nothing but meere States-men. LEN. Yes, Your Ladyship shall observe their gravity, And their referuednesse, their many cautions, Fitting their persons. SEM. Idoe wonder much, That States, and Common-wealths employ not women, To be Ambassadors, sometimes: we should Doe as good publike service, and could make As honorable Spies (for fo Thucidides Calls all Ambassadors.) Are they come, Cethegus? CET. Doe you aske me? Am I your scout, or baud? LEN. O Cams, it is no such businesse. CET. No? VVhat do's a woman at it then? SEM. Good Sir, There are of vs can be as exquisite Traytors, As ere a male-Conspirator of you all. CET. I, at sniock-treason, Matron, I beleeue you; And if I were your husband; But when I Trust to your cobweb-bosomes any other.

CATFLINE.

Let methere die a Flie; and feast you, Spider. LEN. You are too fowre, and harsh Cethegus. CET. You Are kinde, and courtly. Il'd be torne in pieces, VVith wilde Hippolytus, nay proue the death, Euery limbe ouer, ere I'ld truft a woman; With wind, could I retaine it, SEM. Sir. They'll be truffed With as good secrets, yet, as you have any, And carry hem too, as close, and as conceald, As you shall for your heart. CET. He not contend with you Eyther in tongue, or cariage, good Calipso: LON. Th'Ambassadors are come. CET. Thanks to thee Mercury That so hast rescu'd mee. LEN. How now, Voluntius? Vo L. They doe defire fome speech with you, in private. LEN, O! tis about the prophecie, belike, one a sand And promise of the Sibylls; GAB. It may bee. SEM. Shunne they, to treat with mee, too? GAB. No, good Lady. You may partake: I have told hem, who you are. SEM. I should be loath to be left out, and here too. CET. Can these, or such, be any aydes, to vs? 0 3 2 Looke they, as they were built to shake the world, Or be a moment to our enterprise? A thousand, such as they are, could not make the One Atome of our foules. They should be men VVorth Heauens feare, that looking vp, but thus, VVould make Ione fland vpon his guard, and draw Himselfe within his Thonder; which, amaz'd, He should discharge in vaine, and they vnhurt. Or, if they were, like Capanens, at Thebes, They should hang dead, upon the highest spires. And aske the second charge, to be throwne downe. VVhy, Lentulus, talke you fo long? This time Had bene enough, t'haue scatter'd all the Starres, T'haue quench'd the Sunne, and Moone, and made the World' Despaire of day, or any light, but ours. LEN. How doe you like this spirit? In such men, Mankind doth live. They are fuch foules, as thefe, Thate

That moue the world. SEN. I, though he beare me hard, I, yet, must do him right. He is a spirit Of the right Martian breed. A L L. He is a Mars. VVould we had time to liue here, and admire him. LEN. Well, I doe see you would preuent the Consul, And I commend your care: It was but reason, To aske our Letters, and we had prepar'd them. Goe in, and we will take an oath, and seale 'hem. You shall have Letters, too, to Catiline, To visite him i'the way, and to confirme The affociation. This our friend, Volturtius, Shall goe along with you. Tell our great Generall, That we are readie here; that Lucius Bestia The Tribune, is provided of a speach, To lay the enuie of the warre on Cicero; That all but long for his approach, and person: And then, you are made Freemen, as our selues.

CICERO. FLACCUS. POMTINIUS.

Cannot feare the warre but to succeede well,
Both for the honor of the cause, and worth
Of him that doth commaund. For my Colleague,
Being so ill affected with the goute,
Will not be able to be there in person;
And then Petreins, his Lieutenant, must
Of neede take charge o'the army: who is much
The better souldier, having bene a Tribune,
Prefect, Lieutenant, Prætor in the warre,
These thirtie yeares, so conversant i' the army,
As he knowes all the souldiers, by their names.
Fla. They'll fight then, bravely, with him. Pom. I, and hee
Will lead 'hem on, as bravely. Cr. They have a foe
Will aske their braveries, whose necessities
Will arme him like a fury. But, how ever,

I'le trust it to the mannage, and the fortune Of good Petreis, who's a worthy Patriot. Metellius Celer, with three Legions, too, Will flop their course, for Gallia. How now, Fabius? SAN. The trayne bath taken. You must instantly Dispose your guards upon the Milnian bridge: For, by that way, they meane to come. CI c. Then, thither Pomtinius, and Flaceus, I must pray you To lead that force you have; and feise them all: Let not a person scape. Th' Ambassadours Will yeeld themselues. If there be any tumult Ile send you ayde. I, in meane time will call Lentulus to me, Gabinius, and Cethegus, Statilius, Ceparius, and all thefe By severall messengers: who no doubt will come, Without sense, or suspicion. Prodigall men "Feele not their owne stocke wasting. When I have hem, Ile place those guards, vpon'hem, that they flart not, SAN. But what'll you doe with Sempronia? CIC. "A State "Should not take knowledge eyther of Fooles, or Women. I do not know whether my loy or care Ought to be greater; that I have discouer'd So foule a treason; or must vndergoe The enuie of so many great mens fate. But, happen what there can, I will be iuft, My fortune may forfake me, not my vertue: That shall goe with me, and before me, still, And glad me, doing well, though I heare ill.

PRAETORS, ALLOBROGES, VOL-

The Action of Rome. Pom. If you be so, then yeeld Your selves of the Whole Senate, and the people of Rome,

Yes

Yet, till you cleare your selues, charge you of practise
Against the State. Vol. Die friends, and be not taken.
It a. What voyce is that? Downe with 'hem all. All. We yeeld.
Pom. Vhat's he stands out? Kill him there. Vol. Hold, hold,
I yeeld vpon conditions. It a. We give none (hold.
To traytors, strike him downe. Vol. My name's Voltuntius:
I know Pominius. Pom. But he knowes not you,
While you stand out vpon these trayterous termes.
Vol. I'le yeeld vpon the safety of my life.
Pom. If it be forseyted, we cannot save it.
Vol. Promise to doe your best. I'am not so guilty,
As many others, I can name; and will:
If you will grant me savour. Pom. All we can
Is to deliver you to the Consul. Take him,
And thanke the Gods, that thus have saved Rome.

CHORVS.

TOw, do our eares, before our eyes, Likemen in mistes, Discouer, who'ld the State surprise, And who relists?
And, as these clouds doe yeeld to light, Now, do we fee. Our thoughts of things, how they did fight, Which seem'd t'agree? Of what strange pieces are we made, Who nothing know;
But, as new Ayres our eares inuade, Still censure fo? That now do hope, and now doe feare, And now enuie; And then doe hate, and then loue deare, But know not, why: Or, if we doe, it is so late, As our best moode, CATALINGE.

Though true, is then thought out of dat e, And empty of good.

How have we chang'd, and come about

In euery doome.

Since wicked Catiline went out,

And quitted Rome ?

One while, we thought him innocent;

And, then, w' accus'd

The Conful, for his malice fpent;

And power abus dance Too and the for the day of

Since, that we heare, he is in Armes,

We thinke not fo : / 10 by of 16 to not one mon

Yet charge the Conful, with our harmes,

That let him goe, in how the print may slibrox

So, in our censure of the State, and and working

VVe Rill do wander;

And make the carefull Magilfrate

The marke of flaunder, white and the state of the state of

VVhatage is this, where honest men,

A Sea of some foule mouth, or pen,

And call their diligence, deceipt;

Their vertue, vice promitted to the most seed and

Their watchfulnesse, but lying in waites

And bloud, the price,

O, let vs plucke this euill feede

Out of our spirits;

And give, to every noble deede

The name it merits.

Least we seeme faine (if this endures)

Into those times,

To loue disease: and brooke the cures

Worse, then the crimes. original on March Land and the contraction

mod of high the sale of the territory and the territory

CATHLINE.

Ad. v.

PETREIVS. THE ARMY.

T is my fortune, and my glory, Souldiers, This day, to lead you on; the worthy Conful Kept from the honor of it, by difeafe: And I am proud, to have so brane a cause To exercise your armes in. We not, now, Fight for how long, how broad, how great, and large Th'extent, and bounds o'th' people of Rome shall bee; But to retaine what our great Ancestors, With all their labours, counsels, arts, and actions, For vs, were purchasing so many yeares. The quarrell is not, now, of fame, of tribute, Or of wrongs, done vnto Confederates, For which, the Army of the people of Rome VVas wont to moue : but for your owne Republique, For the rais'd Temples of th'immortall Gods, For all your Fortunes, Altars, and your Fires, For the deere soules of your lou'd Wines, and Children, Your Parents tombes, your Rites, Lawes, Liberty, And, briefly, for the fafety of the World: Against such men, as onely by their crimes of all Are knowne; thrust out by riot, want, or rashnesse. One sort, Sylla's old troopes, left here in Fesule, Who sodainly maderich, in those dire times; soon on Are fince, by their vnbounded, vast expence, Growne needie, and poore, and have but left t'expect, From Catiline, new Billes, and new Proscriptions. These men (they say) are valiant; yet, I thinke hem

Not worth your paule: For either their old vertue Is, in their floth, and pleasures loft; or, if It tarry with hem, fo ill match to yours, As they are short in number, or in cause. The second fort are of those (Citty-beafts, Rather then Citizens) who whilft they reach After our fortunes, haue let flie their owne; These, whelm'd in wine, swell'd vp with meates, and weakned With hourely whoredomes, neuer left the fide Of Catiline, in Rome; nor, here, are loos'd From his embraces : Such, as (trust me) neuer In riding, or in ving well their armes, Watching, or other militarie labor, Did exercise their youth; but learn'd to loue, Drinke, dance, and fing, make feafts, and be fine gamfters. And these will wish more hurt to you, then they bring you. The rest are a mixt kinde, all sorts of furies; Adulterers, Dicers, Fencers, Outlawes, Theeucs, The Murderers of their Parents, all the finke, And plague of Italie, met in one torrent, To take, to day, from vs the punishment, Due to their mischiefs, for so many yeares. And who, in such a cause, and gainst such fiends, Would not now wish himselfe all arme, and weapon? To cut such poysons from the earth, and let Their blood out, to be drawne away in cloudes, And pour'd, on some inhabitable place, Where the hot Sunne, and Slime breedes nought but Monsters? Chiefly, when this fure joy shall crowne our fide, That the least man, that falles vpon our party This day (as some must give their happy names To fate, and that eternall memory Of the best death, writ with it, for their Countrey) Shall walke at pleasure, in the tents of rest; And see farre off, beneath him, all their host Tormented after life: and Catiline, there, Walking

Walking a wretched, and lesse Ghost, then he.

Ile vige no more: Moue forward, with your Eagles.

And trust the Senates, and Romes cause to Heauen.

A R M. To thee, great Father Mars, and greater Lone.

CAE'S AR, GRASS V.S.

Eucr look'd for this of Lentulus, When Catiline was gone. CRA. I gaue hem loff, Many dayes fince. CAEs. But, wherefore did you beare Their letter to the Conful, that they fent you, To warne you from the City? CRA. Did I know Whether he made it? It might come from him, For ought I could affure me : if they meant, I should be safe, among so many, they might Haue come, as well as writ. CAEs. There is no losse In being secure. I have, of late, too, ply'd him, Thicke, with intelligences, but they have beene Of things he knew before. CRA. A little ferues. To keepe a man vpright, on these State-bridges, Although the passage were more dangerous. Let vs now take the standing part. CAEs. We must, And be as zealous for't, as Cato. Yet I would faine helpe these wretched men. CR A. You cannot Who would faue them, that have betraid themselves?

CICERO, QVINTES, CATO.

Will not be wrought to it, Brother Quintus.

There's no mans private enmity shall make
Me violate the dignity of another.

If there were proofe gainst Casar, or who ever,
To speake him guilty, I would so declare him.

But Quintus Catulus, and Piso both,
Shall know, the Consul will not, for their grudge,
Have any man accused, or named failly.

CATFLINE:

Ov 1. Not fally, but if any circumstance,
By the Allobroges, or from Volturius,
Would carry it. C 1 c. That shall not be sought by me.
If it reueale it selfe, I would not spare
You, Brother, if it pointed at you, trust me.
C A T O. Good Marcus Tullium (which is more, then great)
Thou had st thy education, with the Gods.
C 1 c. Send Lentulus, forth, and bring away the rest.
This office, I am sorry, Sir, to doe you.

THE SENATE.

THat may be happy still, and fortunate, To Rome, and to this Senate: Please you, Fathers, To breake these letters, and to view them round. If that be not found in them, which I feare, I, yet, intreate, at fuch a time, as this, My diligence be not contemn'd. Ha' you brought The weapons hither, from Cerbegus house? PR AE. They are without, Crc. Beready, with Voluntins, To bring him, when the Senate calls; And see. None of the reft, conferre together. Fathers, What doe you reade? Is it yet worth your care, If not your feare, what you finde practis'd there? CAE's. It hath a face of horror. CRA. I'am amazd. (aire? CATO. Looke there. SYL. Gods! Can such men draw common CIC. Although the greatnesse of the mischiefe, Fathers, Hath often made my faith small, in this Senate, Yet, fince my casting Catiline out (for now. I doe not feare the enuy of the word, Valeffe the deede be rather to be fear d. That he went hence aliue; when those I meant Should follow him, did not) I have fpent both daies And nights, in watching, what their fury and rage Was bent on, that so flaid, against my thought: And that I might but take hem in that light, Ribertes M 3.

Where, when you met their treason, with your eyes, Your minds, at length, would thinke for your owne fafety, And, now, 'tis done. There are their hands, and seales. Their persons, too, are safe, thankes to the Gods. Bring in Volturtius, and the Allobroges. These be the men, were trusted with their letters. Vo I. Fathers, beleeve me, I knew nothing: I Was trauailing for Gallia, and am forry. CIC. Quake not Volturtius, speake the truth, and hope Well of this Senate, on the Confuls word. Vo L. Then, I knew all. But truely I was drawne in But tother day. CAE's. Say, what thou know's, and feare not. Thou hast the Senates faith, and Consuls word, To fortifie thee. VOL. I was sent with letters-And had a message too from Lentulus To Catiline __ that he should vse all aides_ Servants, or others and come with his army, Affoone, vnto the Citty as he could-For they were ready, and but staid for him-To intercept those, that should flee the fire-These Men, the Allobroges, did heare it too. ALL: Yes Fathers, and they tooke an oath, to vs. Besides their letters, that we should be free; And vrg'd vs, for some present aide of horse. CIC. Nay, here be other testimonies, Fathers, Cethegus Armoury. CRA. What, not all these? CIC. Here's not the hundred part. Call in the Fencer, That we may know the armes to all these weapons. Come, my braue Sword-player, to what active vie, Was all this steele prouided? CET. Had you ask d In Syllas dayes, it had beene to cut throtes; But, now, it was to looke on, only: I lou'd To see good blades, and feele their edge, and points. To put a helme vpon a blocke, and cleaue it, And, now and then, to stabbe an armour through. CIC. Know you that paper? That will stabbe you through.

CATJLINE.

Is it your hand? Hold, faue the peeces. Traytor, Hath thy guilt wak'd thy fury? CET. I did write, I know not what; nor care not: That Foole Lentulius Did dictate, and I tother Foole, did figne it. CI c. Bring in Statilius: Do's he know his hand too? And Lentulus. Reach him that letter. STA. I Confesse it all. Cr c. Know you that seale yet, Publing? LEN. Yes, it is mine. CIC. Whose image is that, on it? LE N.My Grandfathers. Cr c. What, that renowm'd good man. That did so only embrace his Countrey, and lou'd His fellow Citizens! Was not his picture, Though mute, of power to call thee from a fact, So foule. LEN. As what, impetuous Cicero? CIC. As thou art, for I doe not know what's foulet. Looke vpon these. Doe not these faces argue Thy guilt, and impudence? LEN. VVhat are these to me? I know hem not. A L L. No Publius? we were with you. At Brutus house. V o L. Last night. LEN. What did you there? VVho sent for you? A L I. Your selfe did. We had letters From you, Cethegus, this Statilius here, Gabinius Cimber, all, but from Longinus, VVho would not write, because he was to come Shortly, in person, after vs (he faid) To take the charge o'the horse, which we should leuy. Crc. And he is fled, to Catiline, I heare. LEN. Spies? fpies? ALL. You told vs too, o'the Sibylls bookes, And how you were to be a King, this yeare, The twentieth, from the burning of the Capital. That three Cornelis were to raigne, in Rome, Of which you were the last : and prais'd Cethegus, And the great spirits, were with you, in the action. CET. These are your honorable Ambassadors, My Soueraigne Lord. CAT. Peace, that too bold Cetberns. A 1 L. Befides Gabinius, your Agent, nam'd Autronius, Sernius Sulla, Vargunteius, And divers others. Vo L. I had letters from you,

To Catiline, and a meffage, which I have told Vnto the Senate , truly, word for word: For which, I hope, they will be gracious to mee. I was drawne in, by that same wicked Cimber, And thought no hurt at all. CIC. Volturtius, peace. VVhere is thy vilor, or thy voyce, now, Lentulus? Art thou confounded? Wherefore speak it thou not? That both thy eloquence, and impudence, And thy ill nature, too, have left thee, at once? Take him aside. There's yet one more. Gabinius, The Enginer of all. Shew him that paper, If he do know it? GAB, I know nothing. CIC. No? GAB. No. Nor I will not know. CAT. Impudent head? Sticke it into his throate: were I the Conful, Il'd make thee eate the mischiese, thou hast vented. GAB. Is there a Law for t, Cato? CAT. Doft thou aske After a Law, that would's have broke all lawes, Of Nature, Manhood, Conscience, and Religion. GAB. Yes, I may aske for t. CAT. No, pernicious Cimber. "Th'inquiring after good, do's not belong "Vnto a wicked person. GAB. I, but Cate Do's nothing, but by law. CR A. Take him afide. There's proofe enough, though he confessionot. GAB. Stay I will confesse. All'strue, your spies haue told you. Make much of 'hem. C ET . Yes, and reward 'hem well, For feare you get no more fuch. See, they do not Die in a ditch, and stinke, now you ha' done with 'hem; Or beg, o'the bridges, here in Rome, whose Arches Their active industrie hath fau'd. Ct c. See, Fathers, VVhat mindes, and spirits these are, that, being convicted Of fuch a treason, and by fuch a cloud Of witnesses, dare yet retaine their boldnesse? What would their rage have done, if they had conquerd? I thought, when I had thrust out Catiline, Neither the State, nor I, should neede t'haue fear'd Lenendre fleepe here, or Longinus fat,

CATALINE.

Or this Cethegus rafhnesse; It was he, I only watch'd, while he was in our walles, As one, that had the braine, the hand, the heart. But now, we finde the contrary. Where was there A People grieu'd, or a State discontent, Able to make, or helpe a warre gainft Rome, But these, th' Allobroges, and those they found? Whom had not the just Gods beene pleas'd to make More friends vnto our fafety, then their owne, As it then feem'd, neglecting thele mens offers, Where had we beene? or where the Common-wealth? When their great Chiefe had beene call'd home; This man, Their absolute King, (whose noble Grandfather, Arm'd in pursute of the seditious Gracebus, Tooke a braue wound, for deare defence of that, Which he would spoile) had gather'd all his aides Of Ruffins, Slaues, and other Slaughter-men; Given vs vp for murder, to Cethegus; The other ranke of Citizens, to Gabinius; The Citty, to be fire by Calsins; And Italie, nay the world, to be laid wast By curfed Catiline, and his complices. Lay but the thought of it, before you, Fathers, Thinke but with me you faw this glorious Citty, The Light of all the earth, Tower of all Nations, Sodainly falling in one flame. Imagine, You view'd your Countrey buried with the heapes Of flaughter'd Citizens, that had no graue; This Lentulus here, raigning, (as he dreamp't) And those his purple Senate; Catiline come With his fierce army; and the cries of Matrons, The flight of Children, and the rape of Virgins, Shriekes of the living, with the dying grones On euery side t'inuade your sense; vntill The blood of Rome, were mixed with her ashes. This was the Spectacle these fiends intended

N

CATILINE:

To please their malice. CET. I, and it would Haue bene a braue one, Conful. But your part Had not then bene fo long, as now it is: I should have quite defeated your Oration; And flit that fine rhetoricall pipe of yours, I'the first Scene. CAT. Infolent Monster! CIC. Fathers. Is it your pleasures, they shall be committed Vnto some safe, but a free custodie, Vntill the Senate can determine farder? SEN. It pleaseth well. CIC. Then, Marcus Crassus, Take you charge of Gabinius: fend him home Voto your house. You Cafar, of Statilins. Cethegus shall be sent to Cornificius; And Lentulus, to Publius Lentulus Spinther, Who now is Ædile. CAT. It were best, the Prætors Caried'hem to their houses, and deliuered'hem. CIC. Let it be so. Take hem from hence. CAE s. But, first, Let Lentulus put off his Prætorship. LEN. I docrefigne it here vnto the Senate. CAE s. So, now, there's no offence done to wligion. CAT. Cafar, 'twas piously, and timely vrg'd. CIC. What do you decree to th' Allobroges? That were the lights to this discouery? CR A. A free grant from the State, of all their suites. CAE s. And a reward, out of the publicke treasure. CAT. I, and the title of honest men, to crowne hem. CIC. What to Voltursius? CAEs. Life, and fauor's well. Vo L. I aske no more. CAT. Yes, yes, some money, thou need'lt it. 'Twill keepe thee honest: Want made thee a knaue. SYL. Let Flaceus, and Pomtinius, the Prætors, Haue publicke thankes, and Quintus Fabius Sanga, For their good service. CR A. They deserve it all. CAT. But what do we decree vnto the Conful, Whose vertue, counsell, watchfulnesse, and wisedome, Hath free'd the Common-wealth, and without tumult, Slaughter, or bloud, or scarce raysing a force, Rescu'd

CATFLINE.

Rescu'd vs all out of the jawes of Fate? CRA. We owe our Liues vnto him, and our Fortunes. CAE s. Our Wives, our Children, Parents, and our Gods. SY L. VVe all are faued, by his fortitude. CAT. The Common-wealth owes him a cinicke gyrland. Hee is the onely Father of his Countrey. CAE's. Let there be publike prayer, to all the Gods. Made in that name, for him. CRA. And in these words. For that he hath, by his vigilance, preferred Rome from the flame, the Senate from the fword. And all her Citizens from massacre. CIC. How are my labours more then paid, graue Fathers, In these great titles, and decreed honors! Such, as to mee, first, of the civill robe, Of any man, fince Rome was Rome, have hap ned: And from this frequent Senate: which more glads mee, That I now see, you' have sense of your owne safety. If those good daies come no lesse gratefull to vs, Wherein we are preseru'd from some great danger, Then those, wherein w'are borne, and brought, to light, Because the gladnesse of our safety is certaine, But the condition of our birth not for And that we are fau'd with pleasure, but are borne Without the sense of ioy: why should not, then, This day, to vs, and all posteritie Of ours, be had in equal fame, and honor, VVith that, when Romulus first reard these walles. VVhen so much more is saued, then he built? CAEs. It ought. CRA. Let it be added to our Fafti. CI C. VVhat tumult's that? F'L A. Here's one Tarquinius taken, Going to Catiline; and fayes he was fent By Marcus Crassus: whom he names, to be Guilty of the conspiracy. CIC. Some lying varlet. Take him away, to prison. CR A. Bring him in, And let me feehim. Cr c. He is not worth it, Crasiu. Keepe him vp close, and hungry, till he tell, By

CATILINE:

By whose pernicious counfell, he durst slander So great, and good a Citizen. CRA. By yours I feare, 'twill proue, SY L. Some o'the Traytors, fure, To give their action the more credit, bid him Name you, or any man. Cic. I know my selfe, By all the tracts, and courses of this businesse, Crassus is noble, iuft, and loues his Countrey. FLA. Here is a Libell too, accusing Cafar, From Lucius Vectius, and confirm'd by Curius. CIC. Away with all, throw it out o'the Court. CAEs. Atricke on me, too? CIC. It is some mens malice. I faid to Curius, I did not beleeve him. CAEs. Was not that Curius your spie, that had Reward decreed vnto him, the last Senate, With Fuluia, vpon your prinate motion? CIC. Yes. CAE s. But he has not that reward, yet? Crc. No. Let not this trouble you, Cafar, none beleeues it. CAEs. It shall not, if that he have no reward. But if he have, fure I shall thinke my felfe Very vntimely, and vnfafely honest, Where fuch, as he is, may have pay t'accuse me. CIC. You shall have no wrong done you, noble Cafar, But all contentment. CAEs. Consul, I am silent.

CATILINE. THE ARMIE.

Neuer yet knew, Souldiers, that, in fight,
VVords added vertue vnto valiant men;
Or, that a Generals oration made
An Army fall, or fland: But how much prowesse.
Habituall, or naturall each mans breast
VVas owner of, so much in act it shew'd.
"VVhom neither glory' or danger can excite
"Tis vaine t'attempt with speech: For the minds feare
"Keepes all braue sounds from entring at that eare.
I, yet, would warne you some few things, my Friends,

And give you reason of my present counsailes. You know, no leffe then I, what state, what point Our affaires stand in; And you all have heard, VVhat a calamitous mifery the floth, And sleepinesse of Lentulus, hath pluck'd Both on himselfe, and vs : How, whilst our aides There, in the Citty look d for, are defeated. Our entrance into Galle, too, is flopt. Two Armies waite vs : One from Rome, the other From the Gaule-Provinces . And, where we are, (Although I most defire it) the great want Of corne, and victuall, forbids longer flay. So that, of neede, we must remoue, but whither The fword must both direct, and cut the passage. I only, therefore, wish you, when you firike, To haue your valours, and your foules, about you; And thinke, you carry in your laboring hands The things you seeke, glory, and liberty, Your Countrey, which you want now, with the Fates, That are to be instructed, by our swords. If we can give the blow, all will be fafe toys. We shall not want provision, nor supplies. The Colonies, and free Townes will lie open. Where, if we yeeld to feare, expect no place, Nor friend, to helter those, whom their owne Fortune, And ill vs'd Armes have left without protection. You might have liu'd in servitude, or exile, Or fafe at Rome, depending on the great ones; But that you thought those thinges vnfit for men. And, in that thought, you then were valiant, For no man euer yet chang'd peace for warre, But he, that meant to conquer. Hold that purpole. There's more necessity, you should be such, In fighting for your felues, then they for others. "Hee's base, that trusts his feete, whose hands are arm'd. Me thinks, I fee Death, and the Faries, waiting

What we will doe; and all the Heauen'at leyfure
For the great Speciacle. Draw, then, your fwords:
And, if our desteny enuy our vertue
The honor of the day, yet let vs care
To sell our selues, at such a price, as may
Vndoe the world to buy vs; and make Fate,
While shee tempts ours, searcher owne estate.

THE SENATE.

CEN. What meanes this hasty calling of the Senate? O SE N. We shall know straight. Waite, till the Consul speakes. Pom. Fathers Conscript, bethinke you of your safeties, And what to doe, with these Conspirators; Some of their Clients, their Free'd men, and Slaues Ginne to make head : There is one of Lentulus Bauds Runnes vp and downe the shops, through every street, With money to corrupt, the poore artificers, And needy tradesmen, to their aide. Cethegus Hath fent, too, to his feruants; who are many, Chosen, and exercis'd in bold attemptings, That forthwith they should arme themselves, and proue His rescue: All will be in instant vproare, If you preuent it not, with present counsailes. We have done what we can, to meete the fury, And will doe more. Be you good to your felues. CIC. What is your pleasure, Fathers, shall be done? Syllanus, you are Consul next design'd. Your sentence, of these men. Sy L. Tis short, and this. Since they have fought to blot the name of Rome, Out of the world; and raze this glorious Empire With her owne hands, and armes, turn'd on her selfe: I thinke it fit they die. And, could my breath Now execute hem, they should not enjoy An article of time, or eye of light, Longer, to poyfon this our common aire.

SEN. I thinke fo too. SEN. And I. SEN. And I. SEN. And I. CIC. Your sentence, Caius Casar. CAEs. Conscript Fathers, In great affaires, and doubtfull, it behooves Men, that are ask'd their sentence, to be free From either hate, or lone, anger, or pitty: For, where the least of these doe hinder, there The minde not eafily discernes the truth. I speake this to you, in the name of Rome, For whom you fland; and to the present cause: That this foule fact of Lentulus, and the rest. Weigh not more with you, then your dignity; And you be more indulgent to your passion, Then to your honor. If there could be found A paine, or punishment, equall to their crimes, I would deuise, and helpe: But if the greatnesse Of what they ha' done, exceede all mans invention, I thinke it fit, to flay, where our lawes doe. Poore petty States may alter, ypon humor, Where, if they' offend with anger, few doe know it. Because they are obscure; their Fame, and Fortune Is equall, and the same: But they, that are Head of the world, and live in that seene height, All Mankinde knowes their actions. So we fee The greater fortune hath the leffer licence. They must nor fauor, hate, and least be angry: For what with others is call'd anger, there, Is cruelty, and pride. I know Syllanus, VVho spoke before me, a just, valiant Man. A louer of the State, and one that would not, In fuch a bufineffe, vie or grace, or hatred; I know, too, well his manners, and his modefly: Nor doe I thinke his sentence cruell (for 'Gainst such delinquents, what can be too bloody?) But that it is abhorring from our flate; Since to a Citizen of Rome, offending, Our Lawes give exile, and not death. Why then Decrees he that? 'Twere vaine to thinke, for feare; When, by the diligence of fo worthy a Conful, All is made fafe, and certaine. Is't for punishment? Why Death's the end of euils, and a reft, Rather then torment: It dissolves all griefes. And beyond that, is neither care, nor ioy. You heare, my sentence would not have 'hem die. How then? set free, and increase Catilines Armie? So will they, being but banish'd. No, grave Fathers, I judge hem, first, to have their states confiscate, Then, that their persons remaine prisoners I'the free townes, farre off from Rome, and scuerd': Where they might neither haue relation, Hereafter, to the Senate, or the People. Or, if they had, those townes, then to be mulched, As enemies to the State, that had their guard. SEN. Tis good, and honourable, Cafar, hath veterd. CIC. Fathers, I see your faces, and your eyes All bent on mee, to note of these two censures Which I encline to. Eyther of them are grave, And answering the dignitic of the speakers, The greatnesse of th'affaire, and both seuere. One vrgeth death: And he may well remember This State hath punish'd wicked Citizens fo. The other bonds: and those perpetuall, which He thinkes found out for the more fingular plague. Decree which you shall please. You have a Conful Not readier to obey, then to defend What ever you shall act, for the Republique; And meete with willing shoulders any burden, Or any fortune, with an euen face, Though it were death: which to a valiant man Can neuer happen foule, nor to a Conful Be immature, or to a wife man wretched. S Y L. Fathers, I spake, but as I thought : the needes O'th' Common-wealth requird. CAT. Excuse it not.

CIC. Cato, speake you your sentence. CAT. This it is. You here dispute, on kinds of punishment, And fland confulting, what you should decree 'Gainst those, of whom, you rather should beware. This mischiefe is not like those common facts. Which, when they are done, the lawes may profequite. But this, if you prouide not, ere it happen, VVhen it is happen'd, will not waite your judgment. Good Casus Cafar, here, hath very well, And subtilly discours'd of life, and death, As if he thought those things, a prety fable, That are deliuer'd vs of Hell, and Furies, Or of the divers way, that ill men goe From good, to filthy, darke, and ougly places. And therefore he would have thefe live; and long too: But farre from Rome, and in the small free Townes. Left, here, they might have refeue: As if Men, Fit for fuch acts, were only in the City, And not throughout all Italie? or that boldnesse Could not doe more, where it found least refistance? Tis a vaine Counfaile, if he thinke them dangerous. VVhich, if he doe not, but that he alone In so great feare of all men, stand vnfrighted, He gives me cause, and you, more to seare him. I am plaine, Fathers. Here you looke about, One at another, doubting what to doe; VVith faces, as you trufted to the Gods, That still have fau'd you; and they can do't: But They are not wishings, or base womanish prayers Can draw their aides; but vigilance, counsell, action: VV hich they will be ashamed to forsake, Tis floth they hate, and cowardife. Here you have The Traytors in your houses, yet you stand Fearing what to doe with hem; Let hem loofe, And send hem hence with armes too; that your Mercy May

May turne your misery, as soone as't can. O, but, they, are great men, and have offended But through ambition. We would spare their honor: I, if themselves had spar'd it, or their same, Or modestie, or eyther God, or Man: Then I would spare hem. But, as things now stand, Fathers, to spare these men, were to commit A greater wickednesse, then you would revenge. If there had bene but time, and place for you, To have repair'd this fault, you should have made it; It should have bene your punishment, to have felt Your tardie error : But necessity, Now, bids me fay, let hem not live an hower, If you meane Rome should live a day. I have done. SEN. Cato hath spoken like an Oracle, OR A. Let it be fo decreed. SEN. We all were fearefull. Sy L. And had bene base, had not his vertue rais'd vs. SE N. Go forth, most worthy Conful, wee'll affist you. C AE s. I'am not yet changd in my sentence, Fathers. CAT. No matter. What be those? SER. Letters, for Cafar. CAT. From whom? let'hem be read, in open Senate; Fathers, they come from the Conspirators. I craue to have 'hem read, for the Republique. C AE S. Cato, reade you it. Tis a Loue-letter, From your deare fister, to me : though you hate me. Do not discouer it. CAT. Hold thee dronkard. Consul. Goe forth, and confidently. CAEs. You'll repent This rashnesse, Cicero. PR AE. Cefar shall repent it. CIC. Hold friends. PRAE. Hee's scarce a friend vnto the Publicke. CIC. No violence. Casar besafe. Leade on: Where are the publicke Executioners? Bid hem waite on vs. On to Spinthers house. Bring Lentulus forth. Here, you, the fad reuengers Of capitall crimes, against the Publicke, take This man vnto your iustice: strangle him.

LEN.

CATFLINGE.

LEN. Thou dost well, Consul. Twas a cast at dice In Fortunes hand, not long since, that thy selfe Should'st have heard these, or other words as fatall. CIC. Leade on to Quintus Cornisicius house;

Bring forth Cethegus. Take him to the due
Death, that he hath deseru'd: and let it bee
Said, He was once. C E T. A beast, or, what is worse,
A slaue, Cethegus. Let that be the name
For all that's base hereafter: That would let
This worme pronounce on him; and not have trampled
His bodie into — Ha! Art thou not mou'd?
C T C. "Iustice is never angrie: Take him hence.
C E T. O the whore Fortune! and her bauds the Fates!
That put these trickes on men, which knew the way
To death by' a sword. Strangle me, I may sleepe:
I shall grow angrie with the Gods, else. C I C. Leade
To Cains Casars, for Statilins.

Bring him, and rude Gabinius out. Here, take 'hem
To your cold hands, and let 'hem feele death from you:
GAB. I thanke you, you do me a pleasure. STA. And me too.
CAT. So, Marcus Tullius, thou maist now stand vp,
And call it happie Romo, thou being Consul.
Great Parent of thy Countrie, goe, and let
The Old men of the Citie, ere they die,
Kisse thee; the Matrons dwell about thy necke;
The Youths, and Maids lay vp, gainst they are old

What kind of man thou wert, to tell their Nephewes, When, such a yeare, they reade, within our Fasti, Thy Consulship. Who's this? Petreius? C 1 C. Welcome, VVelcome renowned Souldier. What's the newes?

This face can bring no ill with't, vnto Rome. How do's the worthy Confull, my Colleague?

PET. As well as victory can make him, Sir.

He greetes the Fathers, and to me hath truffed

The fad relation of the Civill strife,

For

For, in such warre, the conquest still is blacke. CIC. Shall we withdraw into the House of Concord? CAT. No, happy Conful, here; let all cares take The benefit of this tale. If he had voice, To spreade vnto the Poles, and strike it through The Center, to the Antipodes; It would aske it. PET. The streights, and needes of Catiline being such, As he mult fight, with one of the two Armies, That then had neare enclosed him; It pleased Fate; To make vs th'obiect of his desperate choise, Wherein the danger almost paiz'd the honor a And as he rifs', the day grew blacke with him; And Fate descended nearer to the earth, As if thee meant to hide the name of things Vnder her wings, and make the world her quarry. At this we rous d, least one small minutes stay Had left it to be' enquir'd, what Rome was. And (as we ought) arm'd in the confidence Of our great cause, in forme of battaile, stood. Whilft Catiline came on, not with the face. Of any man, but of a publique ruine: His Count nance was a civill warre it felfe. And all his hoft had flanding in their lookes The palenette of the death, that was to come. Yet cryed they out like Vultures, and vrg'd on. As if they would pracipitate our fates. Nor staid we longer for hem; But himselfe Strooke the first Broke: And, with it, fled a life. VVhich cut, it feem'd a narrow necke of land Had broke betweene two mighty Seas; and either. Flow'd into other; for so did the slaughter: And whirl'd about, as when two violent Tides Meete, and not yeeld. The Furies stood, on hilles Circling the place, and trembled to fee men Doe more, then they : whilft Piety left the field, Grieu'd for that fide, that, in fo bad a caufe, They knew not, what a crime their valour was. The Sunne stood still, and was, behinde the cloud The battaile made, seene sweating, to drive vo His frighted Horse, whom still the noise droue backward. And now had fierce Engo, like a flame, Confum'd all it could reach, and then it felfe; Had not the Fortune of the Common-wealth Come Pallas-like, to every Roman thought. Which Catiline seeing, and that now his Troopes Couer'd that earth, they' had fought on, with their trunkes. Ambitious of great fame, to crowne his ill, Collected all his fury, and ranne in (Arm'd with a glory, high as his despaire) Into our battaile, like a Lybian Lion, Vpon his hunters, scornefull of our weapons, Careleffe of wounds, plucking downe lives about him, Till he had circled in himselfe with death: Then fell he too, t'embrace it where it lay. And as, in that rebellion gainst the Gods. Minerua holding forth Medula's head, One of the Gyant Brethren felt himselfe Grow marble at the killing fight, and now, Almost made stone, beganne t'inquire, what flint, What rocke it was, that crept through all his limmes, And, ere he could thinke more, was that he fear'd; So Catiline, at the fight of Rome in vs. Became his Tombe : vet did his looke retaine Some of his fierceneffe, and his hands fill mou'd, As if he labor'd, yet, to grafpe the State, VVith those rebellious parts. CAT. A braue bad death. Had this beene honest now, and for his Countrey, As'twas against it, who had ere fallen greater? Ci c. Honor'd Petreius, Rome, not I must thanke you. How modeftly has he spoken of himselfe! CAT.

CAT. He did the more. Ct C. Thanks to the immortall Gods, Romans, I now am paid for all my labors,
My watchings, and my dangers. Here conclude
Your praises, triumphes, honors, and rewards
Decreed to me: only the memory
Of this glad day, if I may know it line
VVithin your thoughts, shall much affect my conscience,
VVhich I must alwaies study before fame.

"Though both be good, the latter yet is worst,
"And euer is ill got, without the first.

The end.

Commission Commission

April 18 3 de coule tel la conorce ma casas of the beach a deline at their green in · Pad to book the advisor of the

Two Parameters

A Colored a to Ale

So California a lo figlico di Reportini vista.

Cartel III, of worthing pluthing to real ix the little

Coast Street of the Coast Street

